Pave Bank can deduct and set-off the Customer's liabilities owed to Pave Bank against any liability owed by Pave Bank's to the Customer, which includes, without limitation, the right of Pave Bank to count (deduct) any amount owed to the Customer to the appropriate amount in the liabilities/payments account to be performed by the Customer.

- 8.6. The Customer undertakes to ensure a sufficient amount of money in their Account(s) to pay or deduct Pave Bank's fees. The Customer further acknowledges and agrees to maintain a balance of the minimum amount predefined in the Agreement, including if agreed separately between the Customer and Pave Bank at all times across the Accounts(s). This minimum balance is required for the continued availability of Products and Services. Should the balance fall below this threshold at any time during this period, the Customer understands that this may result in a reduction or interruption of Products and Services. If the balance falls below the required threshold, Pave Bank reserves the right to unilaterally increase the monthly service fee (at its discretion) and impose any additional charges necessary to cover this adjustment. Pave Bank has the right to revert the monthly service fee to its original amount in the following month, provided the minimum balance requirement is restored and maintained by the first day of that month.

Furthermore, the Customer agrees that any investigation fees, whether imposed by Pave Bank or by correspondent banks, due to inquiries or investigations related to the Customer's transactions, will also be charged to the Customer's Account. The Customer acknowledges and agrees that fees and charges may vary if the nature of the transaction is inaccurately described or if Pave Bank determines that the risk profile of the transaction differs from that initially indicated by the Customer, in such case any additional fees incurred will be charged to the Customer. The Customer is obligated to provide accurate transaction details to avoid discrepancies or unexpected fee adjustments. In such cases, Pave Bank shall inform the Customer about the refusal to grant access to the Account and indicate the reasons for such action. This information should be provided to the Customer prior to refusal to grant access to the Account, if possible, and not later than upon refusal to grant it, unless the provision of such information could weaken the safety measures or was prohibited under legislation.

14. Liability of the Parties

- 14.1. However, the Bank provides no guarantees regarding the availability, performance, or reliability of third-party providers or blockchain networks.

1.2 No Financial, Legal, or Tax Advice

The Bank provides the Service for the purpose of facilitating secure access to Supported Wallets and blockchain networks. The Bank does not offer financial, investment, legal, or tax advice of any kind.

The Customer acknowledges and agrees that:

The Bank reserves the right to amend, modify, or replace these Terms at its sole discretion, including but not limited to address evolving regulatory requirements, technological advancements, or operational needs. Updated versions of these Terms will be made available on the Bank's platform and may be communicated via email or other appropriate channels. Customers who do not agree to the updated Terms must notify the Bank and cease using the Service before the effective date of the new Terms. Continued use of the Service signifies acceptance of the updated Terms.

1.6 Non-Waiver of Rights

The Bank's failure to enforce any provision of these Terms at any given time does not constitute a waiver of its rights to enforce such provisions later.

1.7 Scope and Limitations

The Customer acknowledges that the Service operates within the following limitations:

1. Blockchain Dependency: The Service's performance relies on underlying blockchain networks, which may experience delays, errors, or forks that are beyond the Bank's control.
2. Third-Party Providers: Supported Wallets and integrations may be managed by external parties. The Bank disclaims liability for any issues arising from third-party services, including loss of funds or data.
3. No Custody: The Bank does not hold, manage, control or have access to Customer's Digital Assets. The Customer bears full responsibility for securing and managing their private keys, recovery phrases, and wallet credentials.

1.8 Jurisdictional and Regulatory Compliance

The Service is subject to regulatory frameworks and restrictions that may vary by jurisdiction. Customers agree to comply with all applicable laws, including anti-money laundering (AML), counter-terrorism financing (CTF), and sanctions regulations. The Bank reserves the right to deny or terminate access to the Service if: The Customer is located in, incorporated in, or operating from jurisdictions subject to international sanctions or trade embargoes; The Customer engages in activities that violate applicable regulations, these Terms or Bank policies.

2. Definitions

To ensure clarity and consistency, the following terms used throughout these Terms are defined as follows:

2.1 Digital Assets

"Digital Assets" refers to any digital representation of value, rights, or obligations that are created, recorded, transferred, or managed using blockchain technology or similar distributed ledger systems. The Bank reserves the right to request evidence of compliance with these criteria or representations at any time and to seek damages or other remedies for any misrepresentation or non-compliance under applicable law.

4. Description of Services

The following outlines the key features and limitations of the Service:

4.1 Non-Custodial Nature of the Service

The Service is strictly non-custodial. The Bank does not store, manage, or access private keys, Digital Assets, or recovery credentials on behalf of Customers, which remain solely under the Customer's control. The Customer retains full control and responsibility for all private keys and Digital Assets associated with Supported Wallets. The Bank disclaims all liability for the loss, theft, or unauthorized access of private keys or Digital Assets resulting from the Customer's actions or omissions.

4.2 Private Key Generation and Storage

1. Responsibility for Security: The Customer acknowledges that private keys necessary to access and control Digital Assets are generated directly on the Customer's device during wallet creation and are never transmitted to or stored by the Bank. The Bank has no access to private keys at any time and does not maintain backups or recovery solutions for private keys. The Customer is solely responsible for safeguarding private keys, recovery credentials, and wallet access information. The Bank strongly advises Customers to implement industry best practices for wallet security, including multi-factor authentication and offline storage solutions.
2. Backup and Recovery: The Customer must maintain adequate backups of private keys and recovery phrases to prevent loss of access to Digital Assets. In the event that a Customer loses access to their private keys or recovery credentials, the Bank is unable to assist with recovery or access to Digital Assets.
3. Risk Acknowledgment: The Customer acknowledges that loss of private keys or recovery credentials may result in the permanent and irreversible loss of Digital Assets.

IMPORTANT NOTICE:

LOSS OF PRIVATE KEYS OR RECOVERY CREDENTIALS WILL RESULT IN PERMANENT LOSS OF DIGITAL ASSETS.

The Bank does not store or have access to private keys, recovery phrases, or wallet credentials. If the Customer loses or mismanages these elements, the Bank will not be able to assist in recovery, and all associated Digital Assets will be irretrievably lost. The Customer is solely responsible for safeguarding their access credentials and assumes all risks associated with their loss.

4.3 Wallet Integration and Transaction Capabilities

The Service enables the Customer to:

1. Connect to Supported Wallets: Integrate and manage pre-approved Supported Wallets through the Bank's secure platform.
2. Initiate Blockchain Transactions: Facilitate the transfer, receipt, and exchange of Digital Assets. All transactions are executed directly on blockchain networks, and the Bank has no control over the validation, execution, or confirmation of transactions.
3. Monitor Activity: View transaction history and wallet balances through the platform.

4.4 Fiat and Digital Asset Conversions

Where applicable, the Service may include functionality that enables the conversion of fiat currencies to Digital Assets and vice versa ("Conversions"). The following terms apply to the Conversion feature:

4.4.1 Supported Currencies and Digital Assets:

The Bank determines, at its sole discretion, which fiat currencies and Digital Assets are eligible for Conversions. The list of supported currencies and Digital Assets may be updated or modified by the Bank without prior notice.

4.4.2 Exchange Rates and Pricing Transparency:

Conversions are executed at rates provided by the Bank, which are calculated based on aggregated market data and other relevant factors. The Customer will be informed of the applicable exchange rate and any associated fees prior to confirming a Conversion transaction.

4.4.3 Execution and Settlement:

Conversions initiated through the Service are processed according to timelines and methods determined by the Bank. While the Bank endeavors to execute Conversions in real time or as soon as practicable, actual processing times may vary based on operational requirements, network conditions, or other factors. Settlement times may vary depending on operational and technical factors, including the performance of underlying blockchain networks or financial systems.

4.4.4 Modification or Termination of Feature:

The Bank reserves the right to modify, suspend, or terminate the Conversion feature at any time, for any reason, including but not limited to regulatory changes, market conditions, or operational requirements.

4.4.5 Additional Features:

The Conversion feature may include optional tools or enhancements, such as rate alerts, scheduled conversions, or batch transactions, subject to availability and the Bank's discretion.

4.5 Transaction Limits and Jurisdictional Restrictions

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, impose limits on the number, volume, or frequency of transactions involving Digital Assets, conversions or fiat currencies. Such limits may vary based on factors including, but not limited to, Customer account type, transaction history, geographic location, or regulatory requirements. These limits, if applied, will be disclosed through the Service platform at the time of the transaction. The Bank also reserves the right to block or restrict transactions, including deposits, withdrawals, or transfers, originating from or destined for high-risk or sanctioned jurisdictions, or based on other factors according to the bank's policies. Customers attempting to transact from such jurisdictions may be required to provide additional documentation or wait until they are operating from a jurisdiction approved by the Bank.

4.6 Keys Recovery Services at Bank's Discretion and Subject to Availability:

The Bank, at its sole discretion, may provide recovery mechanisms for private keys or recovery credentials under certain circumstances and based on the availability of such. These recovery services, if enabled, are subject to the following conditions: Recovery may be limited to specific wallet types, supported Digital Assets, or eligible accounts as determined by the Bank; The Bank may require the Customer to undergo identity verification, additional authentication processes, or other security measures to validate recovery requests; The Bank reserves the right to impose fees for key recovery services, which will be disclosed to the Customer before proceeding with the recovery.

The Bank disclaims liability for: Unsuccessful key recovery attempts caused by technical limitations, security breaches, or regulatory constraints; Delays in recovery due to incomplete or inaccurate information provided by the Customer; Any loss of Digital Assets resulting from reliance on the Bank's recovery services or the Customer's failure to implement adequate backup and security measures.

The Bank reserves the right to decline recovery requests at its sole discretion, including but not limited to cases involving unsupported wallets, suspected fraudulent activity, or non-compliance with the Bank's requirements. The Bank's decision to provide or withhold recovery services shall be final and binding.

4.7 Service Availability

The Service is provided on an "as-is" and "as-available" basis. The Bank does not guarantee uninterrupted access to the Service and may suspend or terminate access for maintenance, upgrades, or legal compliance.

4.8 Discretion Over Supported Assets and Networks

The Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to determine which assets, blockchain networks, wallet types, or associated features are supported by the Service. This includes, but is not limited to:

1. Adding, removing, or limiting support for specific assets, currencies or tokens based on regulatory, market, security, internal policy or operational considerations.
2. Determining the compatibility of supported Digital Assets with particular blockchain networks, wallet providers, or protocols.
3. Imposing restrictions or additional requirements for transactions involving certain assets, currencies or blockchain networks, such as minimum or maximum transaction amounts, supported jurisdictions, or network fees.
4. The Bank reserves the right to implement approval processes, due diligence measures, and wallet whitelisting procedures for wallets used in connection with the Service. These measures are intended to enhance security, ensure compliance with applicable laws, and mitigate operational and financial risks. The Bank reserves the right to modify, expand, or discontinue wallet approval, due diligence, and whitelisting requirements at any time, with or without notice to the Customer, as determined by operational needs or regulatory considerations.

The Bank may update or modify the list of supported assets, currencies, networks, or wallet types at any time without prior notice to the Customer. However, where practical and feasible, the Bank will make reasonable efforts to inform Customers of significant changes that may impact their use of the Service. The Bank reserves the right to impose restrictions, limits, or additional requirements on transactions, wallets, deposits or withdrawals. The Bank assumes no liability for any loss, delay, or inconvenience resulting from the addition, removal, or modification of supported assets, currencies, networks, or features.

5. Key Risk Disclosures

This section outlines the inherent risks and assumptions associated with the Service and the use of Digital Assets. By utilizing the Service, the Customer acknowledges, accepts, and assumes the following risks:

5.1 Volatility and Speculative Nature of Digital Assets

1. Extreme Volatility: Digital Assets are subject to significant price fluctuations within short periods, potentially resulting in substantial financial losses, including a complete loss of invested capital.
2. No Guarantees: Digital Assets are not guaranteed by any government, central bank, or institution, and their value is determined solely by market supply and demand.

3. Risk of Total Loss: Digital Assets may lose all value in the event of market collapse, technological failure, or loss of confidence.

5.2 Risks Associated with Private Keys and Wallets

1. Non-Custodial Wallet Risks:

- Permanent loss of Digital Assets may occur due to the loss, theft, or compromise of private keys.
- The Bank cannot recover private keys or access Digital Assets stored in non-custodial wallets.
- The Customer assumes full responsibility for implementing robust security measures, including encryption, password management, and secure backups.

2. Private Key Loss or Compromise:

- If private keys or recovery credentials are lost or compromised, the associated Digital Assets may become permanently inaccessible.
- Theft or unauthorized access due to negligence, phishing, or malware can result in the irrevocable loss of Digital Assets.

3. Operational Errors: Errors in securing or transacting with private keys, such as using unsupported wallets or misconfiguring wallet software, may result in transaction failures or data loss.

5.3 Blockchain Technology and Network Risks

1. Decentralized Network Dependence: Transactions rely on blockchain networks that are beyond the control of both the Bank and the Customer. These networks may experience disruptions due to congestion, forks, upgrades, or systemic failures.
2. Irreversible Transactions: Blockchain transactions are final and cannot be reversed once confirmed. Errors such as sending assets to an incorrect address may result in permanent loss.
3. Delays and Failures: Blockchain transactions may be delayed or rejected due to high network traffic, insufficient transaction fees, or network node failures.
4. Technological Vulnerabilities: Blockchain technology is subject to risks such as software bugs, smart contract exploits, and cryptographic advancements (e.g., quantum computing) that could compromise security.

The Bank disclaims liability for delays, failures, or forks resulting from systemic issues in blockchain networks. Customers bear the full risk of errors in transaction details, including incorrect wallet addresses or insufficient fees.

5.4 Legal and Regulatory Risks

1. Evolving Regulations: Digital Assets are subject to changing legal frameworks, which may impact their classification, transferability, or use. Regulatory changes could restrict access to certain Digital Assets or services.
2. Compliance Obligations: Customers must comply with applicable laws, including taxation, reporting, and sanctions requirements. Non-compliance may result in penalties or legal consequences.
3. Jurisdictional Restrictions: The Service cannot be accessed in jurisdictions where the use of Digital Assets is prohibited or restricted. It is the customer's sole responsibility to ensure that their use of the Service complies with all applicable laws and regulations, including those of the jurisdiction where the Service is being accessed or used.

5.5 Cybersecurity and Fraud Risks

1. External Threats: Digital Assets and wallet credentials are vulnerable to theft, hacking, phishing, and other cyberattacks.
2. Private Key Responsibility: The Customer is solely responsible for safeguarding private keys, recovery phrases, and access credentials. Loss of such credentials may result in permanent loss of assets.
3. Systemic Vulnerabilities: Risks include Distributed Denial-of-Service (DDoS) attacks, network fragmentation, and exploits targeting blockchain protocols.

5.6 Market Risks and Liquidity Constraints

1. Thin or Volatile Markets: Digital Asset markets may lack sufficient liquidity, leading to price volatility, slippage, or difficulty executing trades.
2. Valuation Risks: Digital Asset values are not tied to traditional financial instruments or tangible goods, increasing susceptibility to speculative bubbles.

5.7 Blockchain Network Selection and Compatibility Risks

1. Network Forks and Changes: Blockchain networks may undergo forks, upgrades, or changes in consensus mechanisms that affect the validity or usability of Digital Assets.
2. Network Compatibility: The Customer must ensure Digital Asset transfers are conducted on the correct blockchain network. Using an incompatible network may result in permanent loss of funds.
3. Replay Attacks: Forked blockchain networks may allow transactions to be duplicated (replayed) on both networks. The Bank assumes no responsibility for detecting or mitigating such risks.

5.8 Smart Contract and Technological Risks

1. Smart Contract Reliance: The Service may interact with third-party smart contracts that are susceptible to coding errors, exploits, or unintended behaviors.
2. Technological Failures: Malfunction or failure of smart contracts or related protocols may lead to asset loss or transaction errors. The Bank disclaims liability for such occurrences.

5.9 Assumption of Risk by the Customer

1. Self-Custody Obligations: the Bank does not store, manage, or recover private keys. The Customer assumes full responsibility for secure key management. The Customer is solely responsible for the secure management of their private keys and credentials
2. No Fiduciary Duty: The Bank does not act as a fiduciary, advisor, or custodian. Customers are responsible for their own judgment and risk assessments.
3. Responsibility for Errors: The Customer bears all risks related to errors, including mismanagement of wallets, improper transactions, or reliance on third-party services.

5.10 Systemic and Force Majeure Risks

1. Systemic Failures: Significant disruptions to the broader blockchain ecosystem—such as forks, major software failures, or consensus breakdowns—may lead to irreparable loss of assets.
2. Force Majeure: Events outside the Bank's control, including natural disasters, cyberattacks, or government actions, may impact the Service or underlying networks.

5.11 No Financial Advice or Guarantees:

- The Bank does not provide investment or trading advice, nor does it guarantee any profits or financial gains. Customers should seek independent professional advice to evaluate the suitability of Digital Assets and accept that transactions may result in financial losses.

6. Fees, Charges, and Financial Obligations

By accessing or utilizing the Service, the Customer agrees to adhere to all financial terms and conditions as specified herein, including the timely payment of applicable fees, acknowledgment of variable costs, and compliance with legal and tax obligations. These terms are essential to maintaining the operability and sustainability of the Service.

6.1 Applicable Fees

The Customer acknowledges and agrees to pay all fees and charges applicable to their use of the Service as outlined in the Bank's fee schedule, which may be provided at the time of registration, disclosed through the Service platform, or communicated via other formal means, or outlined in Account Opening Agreement or in any other agreement(s). These fees may encompass charges for the Service, connecting wallets, processing blockchain transactions, or accessing features or subscription-based services offered through the platform. All fees are subject to change at the sole discretion of the Bank. Any changes to the fee structure will be communicated in advance, through platform or website notifications or direct communications. The Customer's continued use of the Service following such notice constitutes acceptance of the updated fee structure and terms.

6.2 Fees Exclusive of Taxes

All fees indicated or charged by the Bank for the use of the Service are exclusive of any applicable taxes. The Customer is solely responsible for determining and paying any such taxes arising from the use of the Service. Where required by applicable law, the Bank may collect and remit taxes on behalf of the Customer. In such cases, the applicable tax will be calculated and added to the total fees payable.

6.3 Fee Structure, Currency, and Payment Methods

6.3.1 Bank's Discretion in Currency and Payment Methods

The Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to determine the currency or Digital Asset in which fees are charged. The Bank retains exclusive authority to select the applicable currency, Digital Asset, and account from which the fees will be deducted.

If the Customer's funds or Digital Assets are insufficient or unavailable, the Customer remains obligated to pay the outstanding amount in full without delay. To facilitate fee collection, the Bank may, without prior consent from the Customer, convert funds or Digital Assets held in any of the Customer's accounts and/or wallets with the Bank into the payable currency or Digital Asset using an exchange rate determined by the Bank.

The Customer irrevocably waives any right to dispute the choice of account, the applicable exchange rate, or any losses or discrepancies arising from such conversions, which are conducted solely to satisfy fee payment obligations.

6.3.2 Collection of Fees

The Bank reserves the right to collect fees through any of the following methods, as deemed operationally or technically feasible:

1. Direct deduction from the Customer's available balances and accounts in fiat currency or Digital Assets held within accounts or wallets accessible to the Bank.
2. Issuance of invoices requiring the Customer to transfer the owed amounts to a designated account or wallet.
3. Requiring pre-funding of accounts or wallets to cover anticipated fees.

6.3.3 Fee Calculation and Adjustments

Fees may be calculated using flat rates, percentages, tiered pricing, or other variable methods determined by the Bank. The Bank retains sole discretion to adjust fees, charges, or the overall fee structure at any time to reflect changes in operational, regulatory, or market conditions. Material changes to fees or payment terms will be communicated to the Customer through the Service platform or other agreed communication methods. Continued use of the Service following such notice constitutes the Customer's acceptance of the updated terms, regardless of any additional acknowledgment.

6.3.4 Non-Payment, Late Fees, and Penalties

The Customer is responsible for ensuring timely payment of all fees. Failure to pay fees may result in:

1. Suspension or termination of access to the Service.
2. Late payment penalties, including interest on overdue amounts at a rate determined by the Bank and permitted by applicable law.
3. Recovery of outstanding amounts through legal or collection measures, with associated costs borne by the Customer.
4. Other actions defined in the Agreement.

6.3.5 Promotions and Discounts

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, introduce promotional or discounted fee structures for certain Customer segments, account types, or activities. The Bank retains the right to modify or withdraw such promotions or discounts at any time without prior notice.

6.4 Determination of Exchange Rates

The Bank may calculate exchange rates for Digital Assets using methods such as the Volume Weighted Average Price or other algorithms based on data aggregated from liquidity providers. A margin or fee may be applied to the derived exchange rate. The Bank reserves the right to modify the pricing structure, including margins or fixed fees, based on factors such as market conditions, Customer account type, transaction size, other factors, or based on the Bank's methodology. The Customer acknowledges that all rates and fees may be adjusted by the Bank dynamically to reflect market depth and volatility.

If fees and charges are payable in a currency or Digital Asset other than the Customer's existing balances, the Bank may perform necessary conversions using an exchange rate determined by the Bank. The Bank disclaims liability for fluctuations in exchange rates or additional fees imposed by third-party payment processors or platforms for currency conversions. The Customer agrees that any such fluctuations, fees, or resulting losses are solely borne by the Customer and shall not give rise to any claims against the Bank.

6.5 Taxes and Compliance with Reporting Obligations

The Customer bears sole responsibility for understanding and complying with all tax obligations arising from their use of the Service and transactions involving Digital Assets. This includes, but is not limited to, income taxes, capital gains taxes, and any other levies or reporting requirements imposed by the Customer's jurisdiction of residence or operation.

In certain instances, applicable laws may require the Bank to withhold or collect taxes on behalf of regulatory authorities. The Bank will comply with such requirements where applicable and may report Customer transaction details to relevant authorities in accordance with legal obligations. The Bank does not provide tax advice, and Customers are strongly encouraged to seek independent professional guidance to ensure compliance with their individual tax responsibilities.

6.6 Late Payments, Suspensions, and Penalties

All fees and charges owed to the Bank must be paid promptly in accordance with the terms specified in the applicable fee schedule, the Agreement or as invoiced. Failure to remit timely payment may result in the suspension or termination of access to the Service, at the sole discretion of the Bank.

In the event of late payments, the Bank reserves the right to charge interest on overdue amounts at the maximum rate permitted by applicable law and/or as outlined in the Agreement. Additionally, the Bank may recover all reasonable costs incurred in pursuing collection efforts, including, but not limited to, legal fees, court costs, and third-party recovery agency fees. Customers acknowledge and agree that such measures are necessary to protect the financial integrity of the Service.

6.7 Invoicing

The Bank reserves the right to issue invoices for fees and charges at its sole discretion. The Customer acknowledges and agrees that the obligation to pay all applicable fees arises independently of the issuance of an invoice. The Customer is required to ensure timely payment of fees as outlined in the Agreement, regardless of whether an invoice has been issued. Failure to remit payment within the due date may result in penalties or suspension of Service access.

6.8 Third-Party Fees and Blockchain Costs

The Customer understands and accepts that certain fees associated with the use of the Service may be imposed by third parties, including blockchain network operators and providers. Blockchain network fees, commonly referred to as gas fees, are required to validate and process transactions on decentralized networks. These fees are outside the Bank's control and may vary based on the specific blockchain network utilized by the Customer. As a result, transaction costs may vary significantly depending on network congestion, transaction volume, or other external factors. Customers are responsible for reviewing these details carefully before authorizing transactions. By proceeding with a transaction, the Customer expressly consents to the applicable fees and acknowledges that such fees are non-negotiable and subject to processing.

Furthermore, Customers who engage with third-party integrations or external service providers, such as currency conversion platforms or payment gateways, are responsible for any additional fees levied by those entities. The Bank disclaims all liability for the accuracy, reliability, or fairness of third-party fee structures and advises Customers to review such terms independently before proceeding.

6.9 Refunds and Fee Disputes

Except where explicitly stated otherwise, all fees and charges paid to the Bank are final and non-refundable. Refund requests for transactions executed in error will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis, and approval of such requests is at the sole discretion of the Bank. Customers seeking refunds must submit their requests in writing, accompanied by supporting documentation, within a specified timeframe as outlined by the Bank.

The Customer acknowledges and agrees to uphold the following responsibilities and obligations to facilitate the secure, compliant, and effective use of the Service, as well as to promote a cooperative relationship with the Bank.

7.1 Adherence to Policies and Service Terms

The Customer shall adhere to all policies, guidelines, and terms governing the use of the Service, as issued or amended by the Bank from time to time. This includes, but is not limited to, compliance with the terms specified in this Agreement, operational guidelines provided within the Service platform, and any supplementary rules communicated by the Bank.

The Customer agrees to use the Service only for lawful purposes and in a manner consistent with the applicable laws and regulations of the Georgian and the jurisdictions in which they operate.

7.2 Provision of Accurate and Updated Information

The Customer is responsible for providing accurate, complete, and up-to-date information during onboarding and throughout the term of the relationship with the Bank. Any changes to the Customer's legal structure, ownership, authorized representatives, or other relevant details must be promptly communicated to the Bank. Failure to maintain accurate records or provide timely updates may result in the suspension or termination of access to the Service, and the Bank reserves the right to take remedial action as permitted under applicable laws.

7.3 Responsible Use of the Service

The Customer agrees to use the Service responsibly, in an ethical and transparent manner and avoid any activities that may undermine the integrity, security, or reliability of the platform. This includes implementing adequate security measures to safeguard access credentials, private keys, and other sensitive information associated with the Customer's account. The Customer further agrees not to engage in activities that may cause harm to the Bank, its systems, or other users, including but not limited to attempts to bypass security protocols, interfere with system operations, or use the Service for fraudulent or illegal purposes.

7.4 Responsibility for Third-Party Actions

The Customer assumes full responsibility for all actions performed under their account or profile, including those carried out by authorized representatives or third parties. The Customer shall ensure that only duly authorized persons access and use the Service on their behalf. The Bank disclaims liability for unauthorized transactions or activities resulting from the Customer's failure to secure their account or implement appropriate access controls.

7.5 Duty to Notify and Mitigate Risks

The Customer agrees to promptly notify the Bank of any errors, unauthorized transactions, or security incidents affecting their use of the Service. The Customer shall take reasonable steps to mitigate risks arising from such incidents, including suspending affected accounts, securing private keys, and providing relevant information to the Bank for resolution. Failure to notify the Bank in a timely manner may result in a loss of certain protections afforded under this Agreement.

8. Third-Party Services and Integrations

The Service integrates with or might rely upon third-party services, applications, and providers to enable core functionalities. The following applies to these services:

8.1 Role of Third-Party Wallet Providers

The Service enables the connection and interaction with Supported Wallets and softwares operated or managed by third-parties. These providers maintain independent control over their platforms, and their terms and conditions govern their use. The Bank does not own, operate, or manage these third-party software or wallets and does not provide any warranties regarding their availability, security, or performance. The Customer is responsible for ensuring that any third-party they use complies with the Service's technical and security requirements. The Bank disclaims liability for losses, interruptions, or damages arising from the use or malfunction of such third-party wallets, including but not limited to wallet breaches, loss of credentials, or incompatibility with blockchain networks.

8.2 Use of Decentralized Applications (DApps)

The Service may provide access to decentralized applications ("DApps") hosted on blockchain networks. DApps are autonomous systems governed by smart contracts and decentralized protocols, which are outside the control of the Bank. The Customer acknowledges that DApps carry unique risks, such as vulnerabilities in smart contracts, operational failures, or malicious activities. The Bank does not endorse or guarantee the reliability, security, or functionality of any DApps accessible through the Service. Customers interact with DApps entirely at their own risk and are strongly advised to conduct their own due diligence before engaging with such applications. The Bank assumes no liability for losses, disruptions, or other adverse outcomes resulting from the use of DApps.

8.3 Risks Associated with Third-Party Content

The Service may display, link to, or otherwise incorporate content, tools, or data from third parties, including but not limited to Digital Asset price feeds, market data, transaction tracking, or analytics. While the Bank endeavors to ensure the quality and accuracy of such information, it cannot guarantee its reliability, completeness, or timeliness. The Customer acknowledges that reliance on third-party content is undertaken at their own risk and that errors, inaccuracies, or delays in such content may impact decision-making or transactions. The Bank expressly disclaims liability for any inaccuracies or omissions in third-party content, and the Customer agrees to independently verify any critical information before relying upon it.

8.4 Permissions and Customer's Liability for Third-Party Access

The Customer may authorize third parties to access their wallet or transaction data through integrations or connections facilitated by the Service. Such permissions are granted at the sole discretion of the Customer, and the Bank is not responsible for overseeing, managing, or monitoring these permissions. The Customer assumes full liability for any unauthorized access, data breaches, or misuse of Digital Assets resulting from third-party integrations or permissions. Customers are strongly encouraged to review the terms and privacy policies of any third-party entities before granting access and to use permissions management tools to mitigate potential risks. The Bank disclaims all responsibility for losses arising from third-party access authorized by the Customer.

8.5 Bank Disclaimer on Third-Party Dependencies

The Bank acknowledges that the functionality and availability of the Service depend, in part, on third-party systems and infrastructure, including blockchain networks, and external softwares. These dependencies are subject to risks beyond the Bank's control, such as technical failures, cyberattacks, or regulatory interventions. The Bank does not guarantee uninterrupted access to third-party services or networks and disclaims all liability for disruptions, errors, or downtime caused by third parties. The Customer agrees to resolve disputes or issues directly with the respective third-party providers and acknowledges that the Bank has no obligation to intervene, mediate, or compensate for losses incurred due to third-party dependencies.

8.6 Indemnification for Third-Party Issues

The Customer agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Bank, its affiliates, and their respective officers, directors, and employees from any claims, damages, or losses arising from the use of third-party services, applications, or integrations. This indemnification includes, but is not limited to, losses caused by the unauthorized use of private keys, wallet breaches, or reliance on erroneous third-party data.

9. Termination, Suspension, and Withdrawal of Support

The Bank reserves the right to terminate, suspend, or restrict access to the Service. The Bank retains the right to discontinue support for any assets, currency, blockchain network, or associated functionality at its sole discretion. In such cases, Customers are responsible for transferring affected Digital Assets to alternative wallets or converting them to supported currencies within the timeframe specified by the Bank. The Bank disclaims liability for any losses resulting from the Customer's failure to act within the provided timeframe.

The Bank will endeavor to provide notice of suspension or termination where feasible. However, immediate suspension or termination may occur without prior notice in cases of urgent regulatory, compliance or security concerns.

9.3 Withdrawal of Support for Wallets or Digital Assets

The Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to withdraw support for specific wallets, Digital Assets, or functionalities within the Service. This may include, but is not limited to:

- (a) Regulatory or Legal Constraints: Changes in laws, regulations, or enforcement actions that prohibit or limit the ability to support certain wallets or Digital Assets.
- (b) Security Concerns: Identification of vulnerabilities, breaches, or other risks that could compromise the security or integrity of the Service, Supported Wallets, or Digital Assets.
- (c) Technological Changes: Updates to blockchain protocols, wallet systems, or other technological dependencies that render continued support infeasible or impractical.
- (d) Operational Considerations: Circumstances where maintaining support for specific wallets or Digital Assets becomes commercially or operationally unsustainable.

The Bank's discretion to withdraw support is not limited to the conditions outlined above and may be exercised as necessary to safeguard its interests or those of its customers.

Delisting of Digital Assets:

The Bank may delist or discontinue support for any Digital Asset for reasons including market conditions, regulatory developments, operational concerns, or other factors. Delisting may result in the removal of the affected Digital Asset from the Service platform. In such cases, the Bank may, at its discretion and without obligation, convert any remaining balances of the delisted Digital Asset into fiat currency or another supported Digital Asset at a rate determined by the Bank, taking into account prevailing market conditions and applicable conversion fees.

Notification and Customer Responsibilities:

Where feasible, the Bank will provide notice of such withdrawals or delistings through official communication channels, specifying the effective date and any actions required by the Customer. Customers are responsible for transferring any impacted Digital Assets to alternative wallets or platforms before the specified date. The Bank disclaims liability for losses resulting from the Customer's failure to act in a timely manner following such notice, as well as losses arising from price volatility, reduced liquidity, or other impacts of withdrawal or delisting.

9.4 Consequences of Termination or Suspension

Upon termination or suspension of access to the Service, the following provisions apply:

1. Cessation of Access: The Customer's ability to use the Service and associated features will immediately cease. Any ongoing transactions may be canceled or interrupted, subject to blockchain-specific constraints.
2. Settlement of Obligations: The Customer remains liable for all fees, penalties, or other financial obligations incurred prior to the termination or suspension date.
3. Retention of Data: The Bank may retain Customer data in accordance with applicable laws, including for compliance, auditing, or legal defense purposes.
4. No Liability for Termination Actions: The Bank disclaims liability for any losses, interruptions, or inconveniences resulting from the termination or suspension of the Service, provided such actions are taken in accordance with these Terms.

9.5 Reinstatement of Access

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, reinstate access to the Service following the resolution of the underlying cause for suspension. The Customer must comply with all conditions or requirements imposed by the Bank as part of the reinstatement process, including providing additional documentation or satisfying outstanding obligations.

9.6 Wallet Detachment and Takeout

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, permit Customers to detach their Wallets ("Wallet Takeout") from the Service.

9.6.1 Customer Responsibility Post-Detachment:

1. Upon detachment, the Customer assumes sole responsibility for the security, management, and access to the Wallet, including safeguarding private keys, recovery credentials, and Digital Assets contained within the Wallet.
2. The Bank disclaims all liability for any loss, theft, or inaccessibility of Wallets or Digital Assets following detachment.
3. Detached Wallets are no longer supported by the Bank's platform or features, including transaction tracking, analytics, or integration tools.

9.6.2 Conditions for Wallet Detachment:

The Bank reserves the right to impose the following conditions before processing a Wallet Takeout request:

1. Verification Requirements: Customers must provide proof of wallet ownership and complete identity verification or other compliance checks as required by applicable regulations.
2. Settlement of Obligations: All outstanding fees, charges, or obligations must be settled in full prior to the detachment of the Wallet.
3. Operational Feasibility: Wallet detachment requests are subject to operational, technical, and regulatory feasibility as determined by the Bank.

9.6.3 Bank's Discretion to Approve or Deny Requests:

1. The Bank retains full discretion to approve or deny Wallet Takeout requests based on risk assessments, compliance standards, or operational considerations.
2. The Bank may reject requests for Wallet Takeout if the Wallet is associated with flagged activity, non-compliance, or unresolved disputes.
3. Wallet detachment may not be available for certain wallet types, Digital Assets, or jurisdictions as determined by the Bank.

9.6.4 Finality of Wallet Detachment:

1. Wallet detachment is irrevocable, and the Bank does not guarantee the ability to reintegrate detached Wallets with the Service.
2. The Customer acknowledges that detachment may result in the permanent loss of access to platform-specific features and services.

9.6.5 Regulatory and Compliance Obligations:

The Bank may impose additional requirements or restrictions for Wallet Takeout requests to ensure compliance with applicable laws, including anti-money laundering (AML), counter-terrorism financing (CTF), and sanctions regulations. The Customer agrees to provide all requested documentation or information to facilitate compliance with such obligations.

The parties agree to make reasonable efforts to resolve any disputes, claims, or disagreements arising out of or in connection with this Agreement through informal negotiation. If the parties are unable to reach a resolution within a reasonable time, either party may seek to resolve the dispute through legal proceedings in accordance with the governing law and jurisdiction provisions set forth in this Agreement.

16.3 Confidentiality of Proceedings

The Customer agrees to maintain the confidentiality of all legal proceedings, including pre-litigation negotiations, mediations, and any related communications. The Customer shall not disclose the existence, content, or outcome of such proceedings without the prior written consent of the Bank, except as required by law or to enforce a court judgment.

17.3 Severability of Provisions

If any provision of these Terms is found to be invalid, illegal, or unenforceable under applicable law, the remaining provisions shall remain in full force and effect. The parties agree to replace any invalid provision with a valid and enforceable one that most closely reflects the original intent of the provision.

17.4 Survival of Terms Post-Termination

The termination or expiration of these Terms shall not affect the enforceability of provisions that by their nature are intended to survive, including but not limited to those addressing liability limitations, indemnification, intellectual property, dispute resolution, and confidentiality.

17.5 No Waiver

The failure or delay of either party to exercise any right, remedy, or privilege under these Terms shall not constitute a waiver of such right, remedy, or privilege. Any waiver must be expressly stated in writing and signed by the waiving party.

17.6 Notices to Third Parties

If required by applicable law, certain terms may be disclosed to regulatory authorities or third parties. The Customer acknowledges that such disclosures may occur without prior notice if mandated by law or regulatory requirements.

The Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion and at any time, to introduce a parallel custodial or other type of wallet service alongside the existing Service; or transition the Service to include or fully become a custodial or other type of wallet service, whereby private keys and Digital Assets may be held, managed, or secured by the Bank, its subsidiaries, an affiliated entity holding a Virtual Asset Service Provider ("VASP") license, or a third party with whom the Bank collaborates ("Designated Entity").

This transition may involve changes to the operational model, terms of use, fee structures, and regulatory obligations. The Customer acknowledges and agrees that the Bank may implement this transition without prior consultation with the Customer but will notify Customers of the transition in accordance with the terms set out below.

18.2. Scope and Operational Framework

In the event of a transition:

1. Responsibility: The Designated Entity will assume responsibility for safeguarding private keys and/or managing Digital Assets on behalf of the Customer in accordance with industry standards and applicable regulations.
2. Compliance with Regulations: The Bank or the Designated Entity will ensure full compliance with applicable laws and requirements.
3. Use of Third Parties: The Bank may engage third-party service providers for certain functions, such as storage, transaction execution, or security enhancements. The Bank shall exercise due diligence in selecting such providers but disclaims all liability for their acts or omissions, except as required by law.

18.3. Notification and Acceptance

The Bank will provide the Customer with at least ten (10) days' written notice of the transition, which may be delivered electronically through the Service platform, email, or other communication channels. The notice will specify:

1. The effective date of the transition.
2. Any material changes to terms, fees, or Customer obligations.
3. Actions required by the Customer, if any, such as acceptance of updated terms or the transfer of Digital Assets to an alternative wallet.

Continued use of the Service after the effective date constitutes the Customer's acceptance of the updated terms and participation in the custodial or other type of wallet service.

18.4. Impact on Existing Terms and Conditions

1. Automatic Modification of Terms: Upon the effective date of the transition, these Terms and Conditions will be deemed amended or replaced, as necessary, to reflect the custodial or other type of renewed nature of the Service. The Bank will provide an updated version of the Terms and Conditions ("Updated Terms") alongside the transition notification. The Updated Terms will govern all aspects of the custodial or other type of wallet service.
2. Continuity of Obligations: The Customer remains bound by all obligations set forth in the existing Terms until the effective transition date. Obligations that by their nature are intended to survive the termination or transition of these Terms, including but not limited to those relating to fees, compliance, confidentiality, indemnification, and limitations of liability, shall continue to remain in full force and effect following the transition.
3. Superseding Terms: In the event of a conflict between these Terms and the Updated Terms, the Updated Terms will prevail with respect to any matters relating to the custodial or other type of wallet service.

4. No Retroactive Changes: The transition will not retroactively alter any rights or obligations arising from activities conducted under the non-custodial wallet model prior to the effective date.

18.5. Opt-Out and Termination Rights

Customers who do not wish to participate in the custodial or other type of wallet service must terminate their use of the Service prior to the effective date of the transition by providing written notice to the Bank. The Customer is solely responsible for transferring their Digital Assets or performing any other necessary actions required to facilitate the termination. If the Customer fails to take the required actions within the specified timeframe, the Bank reserves the right to terminate the Service unilaterally, without liability for any losses, damages, or consequences arising from the Customer's inaction. The Bank assumes no responsibility for the safekeeping, transfer, or accessibility of Digital Assets remaining in the Service after termination.

18.6. Limitations of Liability

The Customer acknowledges and agrees that:

1. No Liability for Non-Compliance by Third Parties: The Bank is not liable for the acts, omissions, or regulatory non-compliance of third parties, including affiliated Designated Entities or external providers, except where required by applicable law.
2. Customer Responsibilities: The Customer retains responsibility for ensuring the accuracy of their instructions, compliance with applicable laws, and timely action regarding notices or updates issued by the Bank.
3. Irrecoverable Losses: The Bank and Designated Entity shall not be liable for irrecoverable losses resulting from force majeure events, third-party breaches, network vulnerabilities, or other risks inherent to Digital Asset storage and management.

18.7. Fee Adjustments and Additional Terms

The Bank reserves the right to introduce or modify fees for custodial or other types of services, including storage fees, transaction fees, or administrative charges, at its sole discretion. Such fees will be disclosed in advance.

4. Description of Services

4.1 Functional Scope of the Service

1. Service Purpose: The Service constitutes a secure infrastructure provided by Pave Bank, designed to enable Customers to access, initiate, authorize, and carry out transactions involving Digital Assets in a segregated environment. The Bank's role is supporting the facilitation of transaction execution, without exercising discretionary control, over Customer Digital Assets. All transactions must be explicitly initiated and/or pre-authorized by the Customer in accordance with these Terms. The Service does not constitute investment management, brokerage, or intermediation.
2. Operational Framework: Transaction execution is subject to Customer approval via secure authentication and instruction validation protocols, as implemented by the Bank from time to time. These may include, without limitation, multi-factor authentication, digital signatures, biometric verification, or other security measures appropriate to the Service. The Bank does not initiate, modify, or complete transactions on its own initiative, except where expressly approved in accordance with these Terms. Access to such infrastructure is governed by internal access control procedures, and any system-level permissions are deemed delegated solely for execution purposes under the authority of the Customer.
3. Segregated Asset Environment and Legal Separation: Customer Digital Assets are maintained in segregated environments, with no co-mingling between: Customer and Bank assets; or other Customers assets. Assets are assigned to uniquely identifiable wallet environments or ledger structures, with transparent internal records mapping assets to each individual Customer. The Bank applies robust segregation protocols and internal controls to enforce full separation, ensuring traceable ownership at all times.

4. No Use of Customer Assets by the Bank: The Bank shall not stake, lend, pledge, invest, rehypothecate, or otherwise use Customer assets for its own financial or operational purposes. Customer assets shall not be employed in liquidity management, market-making, treasury activities, or any other internal deployment.
5. Key Management and Delegated Access Protocols: Where Pave Bank holds or manages Private Keys required for transaction execution, such access is strictly limited to the technical facilitation of customer-authorized transactions. The Customer expressly delegates Private Key management to the Bank for the sole purpose of transaction execution and acknowledges that the Bank may not use such access independently or beyond the scope of instructions as per these Terms. The delegation is non-revocable for the duration of the Service usage, unless the Customer terminates the Service or unless otherwise agreed under specific procedures outlined in these Terms.
6. Digital Asset Ownership: The Customer retains full and exclusive ownership rights over all Digital Assets allocated under the Service.
7. Non-Transferability & No Assignment of Rights: The Customer may not assign, sublicense, or otherwise transfer their access rights to the Service or any related technical functionalities to any third party without the prior written consent of Pave Bank.
8. Customer Responsibility for Profits and Losses: All economic rights and outcomes associated with the use of Digital Assets via the Service, including profits and losses, are borne solely by the Customer. Pave Bank does not indemnify or compensate for losses resulting from Customer decisions, including trading choices, market volatility, slippage, or failed execution due to network conditions. All transactions executed through the Service are final, binding, and irreversible, with the Customer assuming full responsibility for all resulting financial consequences. The Bank does not provide real-time monitoring, post-execution analytics, or performance assessments, nor is it liable for any failure by the Customer to evaluate market conditions or transaction outcomes. The Customer acknowledges that all decisions regarding Digital Asset transactions are made independently, that the Bank does not provide financial, legal, tax, or investment advice, and that the Bank is not responsible for tracking asset performance or advising on execution timing.
9. Disclaimer of Yield or Earnings: The Service does not generate interest, staking rewards, yield, or any income on Digital Assets maintained within the segregated environment.

4.2 Transaction Authorization

All transactions executed through the Service must be based on authorization provided by the Customer through secure and verified communication channels. The Bank shall not initiate or complete any transaction unless such instruction is properly received and validated in accordance with the applicable authorization protocols defined under these Terms.

4.2.1 Authorization Mechanisms

To ensure transaction integrity, security, and compliance, the Service operates under a multi-layered authorization and verification framework. The Bank may apply one or more of the following mechanisms to validate and authenticate Customer instructions:

- Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA): Including, but not limited to, SMS-based codes, app-based authenticators, biometric verification, or other authentication methods designated by the Bank;
- Digital Signatures: Customer-specific cryptographic tools confirming the authenticity and intent of the instruction;
- Secure Instruction Channels: Submission of transaction requests via designated, pre-verified interfaces or secured application layers;
- Whitelisted Wallet Verification: Where applicable, outbound transactions may be restricted to wallet addresses previously approved and registered by the Customer and accepted by the Bank; The Bank reserves the right to implement approval processes, due diligence measures, and wallet whitelisting procedures for wallets used in connection with the Service. These measures are intended to enhance security, ensure compliance with applicable laws, and mitigate operational and financial risks. The Bank reserves the right to modify, expand, or discontinue wallet approval, due diligence, and whitelisting requirements at any time, with or without notice to the Customer, as determined by operational needs or regulatory considerations.
- Instructional Approval Layers: In certain cases, additional sequential or parallel internal approval layers may apply, depending on transaction type, amount, asset class, or risk-based criteria.

The Bank may, at its discretion and subject to operational or regulatory considerations, implement additional authentication requirements or modify existing mechanisms for specific transaction types or Customer profiles. Any such changes will be communicated to Customers through appropriate channels and shall be deemed incorporated into these Terms upon notice.

4.2.2 Execution Following Authorization

Once an instruction is successfully authenticated and verified, it is processed through Pave Bank's secure transaction infrastructure and transmitted to the relevant blockchain network for execution. Customers remain solely responsible for:

- Ensuring the accuracy and completeness of all instruction details prior to submission;
- Maintaining a sufficient amount to cover any applicable network or execution fees (e.g., gas fees);
- Understanding and assessing the operational and financial implications of each asset movement prior to authorization.

Pave Bank shall not be liable for execution outcomes resulting from erroneous, incomplete, or inaccurate instructions, nor for transaction failures or delays caused by network conditions, congestion, or other external factors beyond the Bank's control following Customer authorization.

4.2.3 Irrevocability and Responsibility

Digital Asset transactions are inherently final and irreversible once submitted to the blockchain network. By authorizing a transaction, the Customer acknowledges and accepts full responsibility for the outcome, including but not limited to:

- Value fluctuations occurring between instruction and execution;
- Operational errors in the transaction details;
- Execution failures due to insufficient network fees or incompatible wallet addresses.

Unless expressly permitted under these Terms (e.g. Pre-Authorised Transactions), the Bank does not execute any instruction without a traceable, authenticated, and verifiable Customer authorization. The Customer bears full responsibility for all consequences arising from transactions executed on the basis of such authorization.

4.2.4 Pre-Authorized Transactions and Bank's Limited Intervention Rights

Pave Bank shall not execute, approve, or facilitate any Digital Asset transaction without the Customer's explicit authorization, except as expressly permitted under this Section. Customers are obligated to return mistakenly credited funds/assets immediately upon notification. Failure to return such funds/assets may result in penalties and service restrictions. If a Customer uses mistakenly credited digital assets or funds, they are obligated to return the full amount to Pave Bank immediately. In cases where the funds/assets have been used, the Customer shall compensate Pave Bank with a penalty fee of 0.5% of the used amount per day for each day the funds/assets were not returned. Failure to comply may result in legal action, account restrictions, or additional financial penalties.

7. Security Threats & Fraud Prevention:

- a. Locking profiles and/or accounts due to unauthorized access attempts, phishing attacks, or suspicious login activity.
- b. Freezing transactions related to active fraud investigations or breach of Pave Bank's security policies.

8. Customer Liabilities and Bank's Right to Charge from Assets: The Customer acknowledges and agrees that: Any outstanding liabilities, unpaid fees, or other obligations owed to Pave Bank may be deducted from the Customer's available Digital Assets within the Service platform; The Bank has the right to withhold, restrict, or deduct the necessary amount to settle any financial obligations associated with the Customer's use of the Service;

4.2.5 Customer Delegation of Private Key Management

A. Customer's Retained Authority Over Digital Assets

The Customer retains full beneficial ownership and control over the Digital Assets allocated to them under the Service. At no point shall Pave Bank assume independent discretionary control over the Customer's assets or private keys.

B. Delegation of Key Management for Transaction Facilitation

The Customer authorizes Pave Bank to securely hold private keys solely as a technical enabler for transaction facilitation. The Bank shall never use private keys to access, manage, or transfer assets without an explicit instruction from the Customer as per these Terms. The Bank does not obtain any ownership, discretionary control, or legal claim over customer digital assets through this delegation.

C. Limitations of Delegated Authority

Pave Bank shall act as a secure custodian of private keys, with its authority strictly limited to the following conditions:

1. Execution Upon Customer Instruction – Pave Bank shall only use the delegated private key authority to facilitate transactions when explicitly authorized by the Customer through approved authentication mechanisms or as otherwise permitted in accordance with these Terms, including pre-authorized transaction arrangements where applicable.
2. No Independent Transaction Initiation – Pave Bank shall not initiate, approve, or execute any transaction without verified customer approval, except as provided under Section 4.2.4 (Pre-Authorized Transactions).
3. No Transfer of Ownership or Rights – The delegation of key management to Pave Bank shall not confer upon Pave Bank any ownership, financial interest, or discretionary control over Customer assets.
4. Customer Revocation Rights – The Customer may revoke this delegation at any time, subject to compliance with operational and security procedures necessary to ensure continuity of access to Digital Assets and/or the Service.

4.2.6 Customer Revocation of Delegation

A. Delegation as a Condition of Service

The Customer acknowledges that delegation of private key management to Pave Bank is a fundamental requirement of the Service. Revocation of delegation is not permitted while the Customer maintains an active account/profile with the Bank.

B. Revocation Process & Advance Notice

If the Customer wishes to revoke delegation of private key management, they must:

1. In the event the Customer wishes to revoke Pave Bank's delegated authority over Private Keys, the Customer must initiate Service termination in accordance with the provisions and notice periods defined under these Terms. Such revocation shall take effect upon formal termination of the Service, and the Bank's technical ability to facilitate transactions shall cease accordingly. Customers must submit a written termination request with sufficient advance notice, as required under the Service Termination procedures set forth in these Terms.

2. Undergo security and compliance verification, including but not limited to AML screening, fraud detection, and outstanding financial obligations review.
3. Specify an external wallet address for asset transfer that meets Pave Bank's compliance requirements.
4. Acknowledge that account/profile access will be permanently disabled once the revocation process is completed.
5. The revocation of the Bank's delegated authority under the Service shall solely result in the cessation of transaction facilitation and execution rights by Pave Bank. Such revocation shall not be construed as a right to receive access to or transfer of any underlying infrastructure components, cryptographic credentials, or key management elements used for Service delivery.

C. Restrictions on Revocation

Pave Bank may pause a request for delegation revocation under the following circumstances:

1. Pending Transactions – If there are any transactions awaiting confirmation, settlement, or processing.
2. Outstanding Liabilities – If the Customer has unpaid fees, service charges, or other obligations to Pave Bank.
3. Regulatory Hold or Compliance Investigation – If the Customer's profile or account is subject to legal, regulatory, or law enforcement action.
4. Security Concerns – If the Customer's profile or account is flagged for suspected fraud, unauthorized access, or security breaches.
5. Technical Constraints – If Pave Bank is unable to process the revocation due to external factors such as blockchain network outages, force majeure events, or other unforeseen technical issues.

D. Final Asset Transfer and Profile/Account Termination

Upon successful completion of the revocation process:

1. All Digital Assets within the Customer's segregated wallet will be transferred to the Customer's designated external wallet.
2. The Customer's profile/account with Pave Bank will be permanently closed.
3. The Customer will no longer have access to the Service.

E. No Liability for Service Termination

The Customer acknowledges that once delegation is revoked, Pave Bank shall have no further obligations to provide transaction execution, security, or technical support. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any loss, delays, or inconveniences arising from the Customer's decision to revoke delegation.

4.3 Transaction Capabilities

The Service includes a range of transaction capabilities enabling Customers to access, transfer, convert, and manage Digital Assets and fiat currencies via the Segregated Transaction Platform. These capabilities may include, but are not limited to:

- (i) inbound and outbound Digital Asset transfers;
- (ii) deposits and withdrawals of fiat currencies;
- (iii) fiat-to-digital asset conversions (on-ramping) and digital asset-to-fiat conversions (off-ramping); and
- (iv) asset-to-asset conversions.
- (v) view transaction history and wallet balances through the platform

Pave Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to introduce new functionalities, modify existing features, or suspend specific transaction types in accordance with operational, regulatory, or risk-related considerations. The availability and scope of transaction capabilities may vary depending on the type of asset, jurisdiction, or other operational, compliance and risk management considerations.

A. Eligibility and Funding

Customers must ensure the availability of sufficient fiat and/or Digital Assets within their designated transaction environment to initiate and execute transactions through the Service. By using the Service, Customers confirm that they are acting on their own behalf and not as intermediaries for any third party.

B. Deposits and Inbound Transfers

Customers may deposit supported Digital Assets and fiat currencies using approved funding methods. Deposits are subject to processing times, network fees, compliance reviews, and operational settlement timelines before being credited to the Customer's designated transaction environment.

C. Withdrawals and Outbound Transfers

Customers may withdraw Digital Assets to external wallet addresses, provided such addresses have been whitelisted and approved by Pave Bank, where applicable. Withdrawals of fiat currencies may be made through approved payment channels. Withdrawals are final and irreversible once processed by Pave Bank. Customers are solely responsible for ensuring the accuracy and validity of withdrawal addresses and transaction details. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any losses resulting from incorrect address input, or other submission errors on the part of the Customer.

D. Conversions (Fiat-to-Digital Assets, Digital Assets-to-Fiat, Asset-to-Asset)

Customers may convert fiat to Digital Assets (on-ramping), Digital Assets to fiat (off-ramping), or between different Digital Asset pairs. Transactions are subject to liquidity constraints, applicable exchange fees, and settlement conditions. Pave Bank makes no guarantees regarding market prices, execution timing, or asset pair availability.

E. Transaction Fees and Network Costs

All transactions may incur blockchain network fees, exchange fees, or service charges. Fees are dynamic and may vary depending on network congestion and market conditions. Customers are responsible for covering all applicable fees and for maintaining sufficient balances to execute transactions. Pave Bank does not subsidize, advance, or reimburse network gas fees under any circumstances.

4.4 Order Initiation, Processing, and Lifecycle

- 1. Order Initiation and Transaction Funding Requirements: Customers may initiate orders to purchase, sell, convert, or transfer Digital Assets or fiat currencies through the Service. All orders must be initiated solely by the Customer and are subject to the verification procedures outlined in these Terms. Customers may only place an order if they have sufficient eligible assets or funds available within their designated transaction environment to cover the full value of the order, including any applicable fees and network costs. The Service does not permit the use of leverage, margin, or credit-based execution.
- 2. Order Funding Allocation and Reservation Mechanism: Upon placement of an order, the corresponding amount of Digital Assets or fiat currency required for execution is allocated and reserved within the Customer's transaction environment. This allocation is temporarily isolated and not accessible for other purposes until the order is executed or canceled in accordance with these Terms. The reserved amount is excluded from any subsequent transaction initiation. The Bank may adjust the reserved allocation in case of partial order execution or modification, where applicable.
- 3. Order Modification, Cancellation, and Finality: Customers cannot cancel or modify an order once it has been placed, unless expressly permitted by Pave Bank. However, Pave Bank shall only process such requests if technically feasible and permissible under applicable law and internal operational procedures. Pave Bank reserves the right to reject, cancel, or delay any order due to market conditions, compliance concerns, or risk management considerations. Once an order is executed, it is considered final and irrevocable, except: Where required by law or regulatory authority; Where a serious technical error has resulted in incorrect execution, in which case Pave Bank may, at its sole discretion, apply corrective actions, including transaction reversal or balance adjustment if possible.

4. Settlement of Executed Transactions: Executed transactions are settled by applying the corresponding value changes within the Customer's designated transaction environment. Settlement details, including execution price, timestamp, and applicable fees, will be recorded in the Customer's transaction history. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any fluctuation in Digital Asset prices between the time of order placement and execution, nor for delays caused by network congestion or third-party infrastructure.
5. Execution Processing Time and External Dependencies: Settlement timelines may vary based on operational factors, network congestion, and asset-specific characteristics. While Pave Bank endeavors to settle transactions promptly, it does not guarantee the timing or finality of settlement, which may also be impacted by compliance checks or technical validations. Customers acknowledge that the processing time for execution and settlement is subject to multiple external and technical dependencies, including: Performance and congestion of blockchain networks; Validator response times or node availability; Smart contract processing and protocol-level transaction finality; Liquidity constraints and third-party service provider dependencies. Execution speed may fluctuate, and Pave Bank does not guarantee settlement within any specific timeframe or at a predetermined price level. Orders may be subject to delays, partial execution, or failure due to network conditions, market volatility, or external service disruptions.
6. Exchange Rate Determination: Exchange rates applied to Digital Asset or fiat currency conversions under the Service are determined by Pave Bank at its sole discretion, based on aggregated market data, real-time pricing from external sources such as liquidity providers or execution venues, and, where applicable, internal pricing methodologies or risk-adjusted buffers. In certain cases, exchange rates may reflect pre-agreed pricing parameters as outlined in the Customer's individual agreement, pricing schedule, or other applicable documentation. However, the availability of such pre-agreed rates is not guaranteed and may be subject to operational feasibility, market conditions, or discretionary application by the Bank. The final rate applied to a transaction may differ from the indicative rate displayed at the time of order initiation due to factors including, but not limited to: market volatility, latency in rate feeds, execution delays, liquidity constraints, or internal pricing safeguards. Customers acknowledge that all displayed exchange rates are indicative only and that the definitive rate applicable to a given transaction is determined at the time of actual execution or settlement.
7. Customer Instruction Requirement and Asset-Specific Restrictions: All orders must be initiated based on explicit Customer instruction and authorization. Pave Bank does not initiate, modify, or execute any transaction on behalf of the Customer unless expressly pre-authorized in accordance with these Terms. Customers remain solely responsible for verifying all transaction details, including destination address, asset type, and execution parameters, prior to submission. The ability to process orders may be restricted based on asset-specific or protocol-specific limitations, including but not limited to: Transfer limitations (e.g., whitelisted counterparties only); Smart contract-imposed lock-ups or freezes; Issuer-defined restrictions on transfers or conversions; Compliance verification requirements. Pave Bank shall not be liable for failed or delayed execution due to such limitations, and Customers acknowledge that certain Digital Assets may be subject to enhanced review, screening, or operational constraints.

4.5 Execution Conditions

1. Protocol-Level and Issuer-Imposed Restrictions: The ability to execute transactions may be subject to constraints imposed by the technical architecture of the relevant Digital Asset protocol or by the asset issuer. Customers are solely responsible for understanding any such limitations prior to submitting an order. Pave Bank shall not be liable for delays, rejections, or failed executions resulting from such protocol-level or issuer-imposed conditions. Such restrictions may include, but are not limited to:
 - Transfer Restrictions: Certain assets may be subject to whitelisting requirements, allowing transactions only between pre-approved counterparties.
 - Token Lock-Ups and Freezes: Some assets may be subject to time-based lock-ups or smart contract-driven restrictions preventing their movement.
 - Issuer-Imposed Conditions: Asset issuers may enforce specific limitations on transfers, redemptions, or conversions that are beyond the Bank's control.
 - Compliance Verifications: Additional checks may be required before executing certain transactions.
2. Execution Discretion and Risk Controls by the Bank: Pave Bank reserves the right to limit, condition, delay, or refuse the execution of any transaction at its sole discretion where it determines that such action is necessary or appropriate, including but not limited to the following circumstances:
 - The transaction would violate applicable laws, sanctions, or regulatory requirements.
 - The transaction poses a risk of fraud, money laundering, terrorist financing, or market manipulation.
 - The Digital Asset or associated network is no longer supported by the Bank's infrastructure.
 - The transaction exceeds predefined control frameworks, including risk thresholds or volume limits.
 - The transaction is inconsistent with the Bank's internal compliance, risk, or security policies.
3. Some Factors Affecting Execution Timing and Feasibility: Pave Bank does not guarantee execution within a specific timeframe and is not liable for delays caused by these external factors. Transaction processing and execution are dependent on various external and technical factors, including but not limited to:
 - Blockchain Network Congestion: High traffic on a blockchain may delay transaction propagation and confirmation.
 - Validator and Miner Availability: Execution speed may be impacted by the availability and responsiveness of network validators or miners.

- Protocol Changes and Forks: Unexpected software updates, protocol forks, or network instability may disrupt normal transaction processing.
 - Smart Contract Errors or Failures: Transactions relying on smart contracts may be delayed or rejected due to code issues or execution failures.
 - Liquidity Availability: The ability to process asset conversions may depend on external liquidity providers and pricing sources.
4. Customer Verification Obligations: Digital Asset transactions are generally irreversible once submitted and confirmed on the relevant blockchain network. Customers are encouraged to review all orders and confirmations carefully and exercise diligence in transaction initiation. Customers acknowledge and accept the following obligations and limitations:
- Finality of Transactions: Pave Bank cannot cancel, reverse, or modify any transaction once it has been broadcast to the blockchain and accepted by the network.
 - Customer Verification Responsibility: The Customer is fully responsible for verifying all transaction details — including recipient address, asset type, and transaction amount — before submission.
 - No Post-Execution Adjustments: In the event of errors, Pave Bank will not compensate or recover Digital Assets that have been sent to incorrect or unintended addresses unless explicitly required by law or technical feasibility.

4.6 Transaction Controls, Service Limitations, and Bank Discretion

This section outlines the discretionary controls exercised by Pave Bank in connection with transaction facilitation, asset and infrastructure support, jurisdictional compliance, and risk mitigation. These controls are necessary to ensure secure, lawful, and operationally robust delivery of the Service.

1. Supported Assets and Dynamic Asset Listings: Pave Bank determines, at its sole discretion, which Digital Assets and fiat currencies are supported under the Service. This includes the ability to add, remove, or limit support for specific assets, currencies, or tokens based on regulatory, market, security, internal policy, or operational considerations; assess the compatibility of supported assets with particular blockchain networks, wallet providers, or protocols; and impose specific requirements or restrictions for transactions involving certain assets or networks, such as minimum or maximum transaction thresholds, jurisdictional limitations, or applicable network fees. The list of eligible assets is dynamic and may be modified at any time without prior notice to the Customer. Support decisions may reflect various internal and external factors, including regulatory developments, asset risk classification, technical feasibility, infrastructure compatibility, protocol security, market demand, liquidity availability, and broader business considerations. Customers are responsible for regularly reviewing asset listings and ensuring appropriate action is taken in the event of asset delisting or restricted support. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any losses, missed opportunities, or asset value fluctuations resulting from such changes.

- 2. Discretionary Controls over Asset Use and Infrastructure Compatibility: Pave Bank retains full discretion in determining which blockchain networks, wallet types, and technical protocols are compatible with the Service. The Bank may implement infrastructure-level restrictions or requirements to ensure transaction security and regulatory compliance, including: Restrictions on certain blockchain versions, tokens, or wallet formats; Imposition of minimum or maximum transaction sizes; Pre-approval or whitelisting of recipient wallets; Enhanced review for transactions involving smart contracts or complex asset structures. Furthermore, the Bank may introduce internal controls to restrict or condition transaction processing where required to prevent misuse, circumvention of controls, or deviation from the intended nature of the Service. Customers are responsible for ensuring that their transactions comply with applicable Service parameters. Pave Bank assumes no responsibility for failed or rejected transactions arising from non-compliance with these infrastructure and asset compatibility conditions.
- 3. Transaction Volume, Frequency, and Risk-Based Limits: The Bank may implement volume, frequency, or value-based transaction limits in order to manage operational risk, ensure compliance, and preserve service integrity. The Bank reserves the right to revise these limits at any time. Applicable limits will be communicated through the Service interface or other designated channels. Customers acknowledge that exceeding defined thresholds may result in delayed execution, rejection of transactions, or additional verification requirements.
- 4. Temporary Service Suspensions and Execution Refusals: Pave Bank may suspend, delay, or refuse to execute specific transactions or operations where necessary for operational, legal, or security reasons. Such may occur under the following conditions: System upgrades, maintenance, or infrastructure reconfigurations; Detection of cybersecurity threats, fraud attempts, or suspicious activity; Compliance related reasons or emergency interventions required for financial crime prevention; Market anomalies or liquidity constraints impacting transaction feasibility; Legal orders, enforcement requests, or supervisory instructions. The Bank shall make reasonable efforts to notify Customers of known Service interruptions but reserves the right to act without prior notice where urgent risk mitigation is required. Pave Bank shall not be liable for losses or disruptions arising from such temporary execution controls.
- 5. Discontinuation of Support for Certain Digital Assets, Networks & Customer Obligations:
 - Pave Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to refuse to support, discontinue, or restrict the execution, processing, or facilitation of transactions for specific Digital Assets, blockchain networks, or asset types without providing any reason. This includes, but is not limited to, situations involving regulatory, legal, compliance, security, operational, reputational, or market-driven considerations.
 - Pave Bank may also decline to accept inbound transfers or execute outbound transfers for certain Digital Assets or transactions on specific blockchain networks if such assets or networks are deemed unacceptable due to legal restrictions, compliance risks, security concerns, network instability, lack of liquidity, or internal risk policies.

- If a Digital Asset is scheduled for delisting, Pave Bank may: Prevent new purchases or conversions involving the delisted asset; Cancel open buy orders related to the delisted asset; Allow Customers to sell or withdraw the asset within a specified period, where supported.
- In the event that Pave Bank discontinues support for a Digital Asset or blockchain network, the Customer shall provide withdrawal instructions or make arrangements to transfer such assets to an external address within a grace period determined at Pave Bank's discretion. If the Customer fails to provide such instructions within the designated grace period, Pave Bank shall be entitled, at its sole discretion, to take one or more of the following actions: Return the assets to the Customer's last known external wallet address at the Customer's expense and risk; Convert the Digital Assets into another supported Digital Asset or fiat currency, if feasible, and transfer the proceeds to the Customer's linked account; Maintain the Digital Assets in a restricted state, preventing further transactions, until the Customer provides transfer instructions; In the case of a discontinued blockchain network, attempt to facilitate transfers using alternative methods, provided that such transfers are technically and legally feasible; If neither transfer nor conversion is possible, consider the Digital Asset abandoned, and act in accordance with applicable regulations; Take any other reasonable action as determined by Pave Bank in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any losses, value fluctuations, network failures, or damages resulting from the discontinuation of support for specific Digital Assets or blockchain networks, delays in processing Customer instructions, or the liquidation of assets due to non-responsiveness.

5. Key Risk Disclosures

The Customer acknowledges that Digital Assets and accordingly the use of the Service involves certain risks. The Customer assumes full responsibility for understanding these risks before using the Service.

5.1 Volatility and Transaction Risks Related to Digital Assets

Customers acknowledge that transactions involving Digital Assets are inherently speculative and subject to significant risk. Pave Bank makes no representations or guarantees regarding the future value or performance of any Digital Asset or related transaction.

a) Market Volatility and Price Fluctuations

Digital Assets are highly volatile in nature. Their market prices can fluctuate significantly within short periods due to a range of factors, including but not limited to changes in regulatory frameworks, technological developments, macroeconomic trends, market sentiment, and liquidity conditions. Customers should be aware that the value of Digital Assets may fall substantially with no assurance of market recovery.

b) Risk of Total Loss and Lack of Protection

Customers must recognize that transactions involving Digital Assets may result in partial or total financial loss. Pave Bank does not provide any price guarantees, insurance coverage, or loss protection mechanisms against Digital Asset depreciation. Customers are solely responsible for any financial losses arising from market movements.

c) Transaction Execution Risks

Execution of Digital Asset transactions is subject to multiple operational and market-related risks. These include, but are not limited to:

- Slippage Risk: The execution price of a transaction may differ from the initially expected price due to rapid market movements.
- Liquidity Risk: In periods of low market liquidity, transactions may be delayed, partially filled, or not executed at all.
- Network and Infrastructure Risk: Transactions may be disrupted due to blockchain congestion, forks, protocol changes, or exchange and infrastructure outages.
- Venue and Accessibility Risk: Transaction venues and exchanges may halt or suspend transactions due to technical failures, regulatory interventions, security incidents, or market anomalies, impacting transaction execution, accessibility, and costs.

d) No Guarantee of Continuous Access

Although Digital Asset markets generally operate 24/7, Pave Bank does not guarantee uninterrupted access to transactions, conversion, or other services. Service availability may be impacted by market conditions, technical limitations, or third-party platform issues.

e) Independent Risk Assessment

Customers are solely responsible for evaluating the suitability of Digital Asset transactions in light of their financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance. Customers should seek independent financial, legal, and tax advice before engaging in any Digital Asset transactions or conversion activities.

5.2 Risks Associated with Wallet Access

a) Limited Control by Customer

Customers remain responsible for ensuring that their authentication credentials remain secure. Unauthorized access due to credential theft or compromise may lead to the loss of Digital Assets.

b) Bank's Role in Transaction Execution

Pave Bank executes transactions only upon explicit Customer authorization, and any loss arising from unauthorized approvals, stolen credentials, or security breaches on the Customer's end is the sole responsibility of the Customer.

5.3 Blockchain and Technological Risks

Customers acknowledge that the use of blockchain-based systems, Digital Assets, and smart contract technologies involves material risks beyond the control of Pave Bank. These include irreversible transactions, technical failures, network disruptions, and unsupported asset modifications.

a) Transaction Finality and Irreversibility

Transactions conducted on blockchain networks are final and irreversible once confirmed. Errors such as incorrect wallet addresses, accidental transfers, or unauthorized activity cannot be reversed or refunded.

b) Network Congestion and Processing Delays

Blockchain networks may experience congestion, leading to delayed transaction processing or increased transaction fees (e.g., gas fees). Network delays may affect the speed and cost of executing transfers or conversions.

c) Transaction Failures and Technical Errors

Transactions may fail due to various network-related issues, including miner rejection, insufficient fees, protocol instability, or node synchronization errors. Such failures may result in delays, missed opportunities, or loss of transaction value.

d) Smart Contract Vulnerabilities

Certain Digital Assets rely on smart contracts to facilitate execution and settlement. These smart contracts may contain vulnerabilities, bugs, or exploitable flaws. Risks include: Malicious exploitation of code errors or logic flaws; Unintended execution or transaction outcomes; Governance changes altering contract behavior; or other. Pave Bank does not audit or control external smart contracts and shall not be liable for any financial loss resulting from smart contract malfunction, security breaches, or unintended outcomes.

e) Blockchain Protocol Changes and Fork Events

Blockchain protocols may undergo technical upgrades, governance changes, forks (hard or soft), or reconfigurations that affect asset usability, valuation, or access. Such events may result in: Creation of new Digital Assets (e.g., via hard forks or airdrops); Modification or duplication of existing assets; Disruption or fragmentation of blockchain networks. Customers understand and accept that Pave Bank has no obligation to support Digital Assets arising from forks, upgrades, or governance events, and may be unable or unwilling to facilitate their access or transfer.

f) Unsupported Blockchain Networks and Compatibility Risk

Pave Bank only supports transactions on specific blockchain networks. Transferring Digital Assets on unsupported or incompatible networks may result in permanent loss of assets. Customers are solely responsible for verifying network compatibility before initiating transactions.

g) Risk of Devaluation, Inaccessibility, or Asset Loss

Technical or protocol changes, unsupported forks, or blockchain incompatibility may render certain Digital Assets permanently inaccessible, untradable, or worthless.

5.4 Legal, Regulatory, and Compliance Risks

Customers acknowledge that the use of Digital Assets and related services is subject to evolving legal, regulatory, and compliance frameworks, which may materially affect their ability to use or access the Service.

a) Evolving Regulatory Landscape

Digital Assets are subject to diverse and rapidly developing legal and regulatory treatment across jurisdictions. Changes in laws, regulations, or supervisory interpretations may: Restrict or prohibit certain Digital Asset transactions or activities; Impose new reporting, licensing, or registration requirements; Trigger tax obligations, withholding duties, or information disclosures. Customers are solely responsible for ensuring compliance with applicable laws in their country of residence or operation, including but not limited to: Tax reporting and payment obligations; Securities or financial instrument classifications; Transactional disclosures or record-keeping requirements.

b) Regulatory Actions and Enforcement Measures

Regulatory authorities or law enforcement agencies may issue orders or directives requiring Pave Bank to take specific actions, including but not limited to: Blocking, freezing, or reversing transactions; Restricting or terminating access to certain services; Disclosing account or transaction data for investigation or compliance purposes. Pave Bank will comply with such obligations in accordance with applicable law and shall not be liable for any resulting delays, account restrictions, or financial losses incurred by the Customer.

c) Compliance Measures

Pave Bank is committed to maintaining high standards of regulatory compliance, including adherence to applicable anti-money laundering (AML), counter-terrorist financing (CTF), and sanctions screening requirements. As part of these obligations, certain transactions, wallet addresses, or counterparties may be subject to additional review or compliance verification. Where required, Pave Bank may temporarily delay or refuse to process a transaction, request further information from the Customer. In some cases, this may also lead to a temporary restriction or suspension of access to certain Service features. Pave Bank will endeavor to minimize disruption and ensure transparency where possible, while acting in accordance with applicable legal and regulatory requirements. Customers acknowledge that compliance-related actions may occasionally be taken without prior notice, where necessary, to ensure the integrity and lawful operation of the Service.

d) No Deposit Insurance or Government Guarantee

Digital Assets are not backed, insured, or guaranteed by any government, central bank, or deposit protection scheme.

5.5 Cybersecurity and Fraud Risks

The use of digital financial services and Digital Asset infrastructure exposes Customers to inherent cybersecurity threats and fraud risks. While Pave Bank maintains robust security protocols, no system is immune to malicious activity, and Customers must take proactive responsibility for safeguarding their credentials and digital assets.

a) Cyberattacks, Hacking, and Security Breaches

Digital Assets and supporting infrastructure are frequent targets of cyberattacks, including hacking, malware, ransomware, distributed denial-of-service (DDoS) attacks, and other forms of unauthorized access. Such events may affect blockchain networks, wallet providers, exchanges, or service infrastructure. These risks may result in loss, delay, or theft of Digital Assets or data.

b) Phishing and Social Engineering Attacks

Customers are at risk of falling victim to phishing schemes and social engineering tactics designed to compromise login credentials or induce unauthorized transactions. Common threats include:

- Fraudulent websites impersonating Pave Bank
- Deceptive emails or communications seeking sensitive information
- Fake customer support interactions
- Impersonation of Pave Bank staff or trusted entities

Pave Bank strongly advises Customers to verify the authenticity of all communications and never disclose login credentials, or authentication codes.

c) Unauthorized Access

Customers are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality and security of their access credentials and authentication tools. If unauthorized parties gain access to a Customer's transaction environment or instruction channels, transactions may be initiated without the Customer's knowledge or consent. Given the irreversible nature of Digital Asset transactions, once a transaction has been processed on the relevant blockchain network, it cannot be canceled or reversed. Customers are therefore strongly advised to carefully verify all transaction details before authorization and to implement appropriate security measures to safeguard their access credentials.

5.6 Market Risks, Liquidity Constraints, and Execution Limitations

Customers acknowledge that Digital Asset markets are subject to significant structural and functional risks, including limited liquidity, extreme volatility, and execution uncertainty. These risks may materially impact the pricing, settlement, and accessibility of Digital Assets.

a) Market Depth and Liquidity Risk

Certain Digital Assets may have limited market depth or low trading volumes, making it difficult to execute transactions at expected prices or in desired quantities without incurring significant price impact or slippage. In extreme cases, it may not be possible to execute orders at all. Market conditions may also vary rapidly, and liquidity that exists at one moment may disappear the next.

b) Illiquid or Unsupported Assets

Digital Assets may be delisted, lose market support, or become permanently inaccessible due to market dynamics, technological obsolescence, security issues, or regulatory restrictions. Customers acknowledge that such events may result in the inability to convert or withdraw certain Digital Assets, or in a total loss of their value.

c) Exchange and Venue Risks

The accessibility and pricing of Digital Assets may be affected by the performance of external trading venues and exchanges. Exchange outages, trading halts, operational failures, or security breaches may impair transaction execution and cause price dislocations.

d) Order Execution and Settlement Limitations

Execution of transactions is not guaranteed. Orders may be subject to: Delays in processing; Partial fills or incomplete execution; Failure to execute due to lack of counterparty or market dislocation; Slippage, where the final transaction price differs from the expected price; Disruptions due to blockchain network delays or order book constraints. Pave Bank does not guarantee that any transaction will be executed at a particular price, volume, or timeframe. Execution outcomes may be adversely affected by market volatility, liquidity constraints, or third-party system limitations.

5.7 Systemic and Force Majeure Risks

The availability, performance, and continuity of the Service may be affected by broader systemic risks and unforeseen events beyond the control of Pave Bank. Customers acknowledge and accept that such events may materially disrupt access to Digital Assets or impact their value and usability.

a) External Market and Systemic Risks

The value and availability of Digital Assets may be significantly affected by external factors, including but not limited to: Global market disruptions, asset crashes, or liquidity crises; Regulatory crackdowns or legal prohibitions in relevant jurisdictions; Geopolitical instability, sanctions, or cross-border enforcement actions; Critical technological failures within blockchain ecosystems or supporting infrastructure. These risks may impair Customers' ability to access, transfer, or liquidate Digital Assets and may lead to unexpected losses.

b) Force Majeure Events

Pave Bank shall not be liable for any delay, disruption, or failure in the performance of the Service arising from force majeure events.

c) Service Interruptions and Operational Disruptions

The Service may from time to time be unavailable due to scheduled maintenance, emergency security responses, or unexpected technical issues. Pave Bank makes no guarantee of uninterrupted availability and disclaims liability for any resulting delays or loss of access to Digital Asset functionalities during such periods.

5.8 Rights & Limitations on Digital Assets

The Customer acknowledges that certain Digital Assets may include embedded rights, obligations, or entitlements as defined by the asset issuer and described in any associated documentation. These may include, but are not limited to, voting rights, dividends, staking rewards, subscription privileges, or conversion options. Pave Bank does not assume any responsibility for exercising, facilitating, or ensuring the Customer's ability to exercise any such rights. In particular, the Bank has no obligation to: Claim dividends, staking rewards, or other distributions associated with Digital Assets; Exercise voting or governance rights attached to any Digital Asset; Facilitate subscription, conversion, or redemption rights attached to Digital Assets; Process the physical delivery of any underlying assets linked to Digital Assets; Enforce or compel the performance of any obligations by the Digital Asset issuer. The Customer understands and accepts that they may never be able to fully benefit from specific rights associated with certain Digital Assets due to technological, regulatory, or operational constraints. The Bank shall not be liable for any loss of entitlements, rewards, or functionalities inherent in the Digital Asset due to such limitations. In cases where Pave Bank agrees, at its discretion, to assist in exercising certain rights or performing specific administrative actions concerning Digital Assets, the Customer must provide clear and timely instructions in accordance with the Bank's specified procedures. If the Customer fails to provide instructions, the Bank is authorized—but not obligated—to act at its discretion in a manner it deems appropriate to protect the Customer's presumed interests, applying commercially reasonable care.

5.9 Assumption of Risk by the Customer

By using the Service or engaging in any Digital Asset transaction through the Service, the Customer expressly acknowledges and accepts all risks outlined in this Chapter. The Customer understands and agrees that Digital Asset transactions are inherently speculative and may result in partial or total loss of value. The Customer assumes full responsibility for their use of the Service and all associated outcomes, and accepts that: All Digital Asset transactions are carried out at the Customer's own risk; The Customer is solely liable for any losses, costs, or damages arising from such transactions; Pave Bank shall not be liable for any financial, technological, legal, or regulatory consequences arising from the risks disclosed in this chapter. By continuing to use the Service, the Customer confirms that they have read, understood, and accepted the risk disclosures contained in this Chapter.

6. Fees, Charges, and Financial Obligations

By accessing or utilizing the Service, the Customer agrees to adhere to all financial terms and conditions as specified herein, including the timely payment of applicable fees, acknowledgment of variable costs, and compliance with legal and tax obligations. These terms are essential to maintaining the operability and sustainability of the Service.

6.1 Applicable Fees

The Customer acknowledges and agrees to pay all fees and charges applicable to their use of the Service as outlined in the Bank's fee schedule, which may be provided at the time of registration, disclosed through the Service platform, or communicated via other formal means, or outlined in Account Opening Agreement or in Schedule or in any other agreement(s). These fees may encompass charges for the Service, using wallets, processing blockchain transactions, or accessing features or subscription-based services offered through the platform. All fees are subject to change at the sole discretion of the Bank. Any changes to the fee structure will be communicated in advance, through platform or website notifications or direct communications. The Customer's continued use of the Service following such notice constitutes acceptance of the updated fee structure and terms.

6.2 Fees Exclusive of Taxes and Regulatory Deductions

All fees indicated or charged by the Bank for the use of the Service are exclusive of any applicable taxes. The Customer is solely responsible for determining and paying any such taxes arising from the use of the Service. Where required by applicable law, the Bank may collect and remit taxes on behalf of the Customer. In such cases, the applicable tax will be calculated and added to the total fees payable.

1. Customer's Responsibility for Tax Compliance: The Customer is solely responsible for determining, reporting, and fulfilling any tax obligations arising from the use of Pave Bank's services, including but not limited to income tax, value-added tax (VAT), withholding tax, duties, or any other applicable levies imposed by relevant authorities. Pave Bank does not act as a tax agent on behalf of the Customer and will not withhold or remit taxes on the Customer's behalf unless required by applicable law.
2. No Tax Withholding by Pave Bank: Pave Bank shall not be responsible for calculating, withholding, or remitting any taxes due on the Customer's transactions or account balances. The Customer must ensure they comply with all tax filing and payment obligations in their jurisdiction and indemnifies Pave Bank against any claims or penalties arising from non-compliance.
3. Regulatory Compliance & Deductions: Where required by applicable laws or regulatory obligations, Pave Bank may withhold, deduct, or report amounts from the Customer's funds or assets in connection with any tax, levy, or similar charge. If Pave Bank becomes liable for any tax, penalty, or associated cost arising from the Customer's status, reporting requirements, or failure to comply with applicable obligations, the Customer agrees to promptly indemnify and reimburse the Bank for such amounts, except where such liability arises from the Bank's gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Bank may also disclose or report relevant Customer information or transaction details to competent authorities, to the extent required by law or regulatory frameworks.

6.3 Bank's Discretion in Currency and Payment Methods

The Bank reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to determine the currency or Digital Asset in which fees are charged and to select the specific account, wallet, or asset from which such fees will be collected. Where operationally feasible, the Bank may prioritize fee deductions in the following order: (i) fiat currency held in the Customer's USD-denominated accounts; (ii) fiat currency held in other eligible accounts; and (iii) Digital Assets held within wallets accessible to the Bank. However, this indicative order of preference does not limit the Bank's right to apply a different order or combination of sources based on operational, technical, or risk considerations.

If the Customer's funds or Digital Assets are insufficient or unavailable, the Customer remains fully obligated to settle any outstanding amounts without delay. To facilitate fee collection, the Bank may, without additional consent from the Customer, convert any available funds or Digital Assets held in the Customer's accounts or wallets into the payable currency or Digital Asset using an exchange rate determined by the Bank. The Customer irrevocably waives any right to dispute the selection of account or wallet, the applied exchange rate, or any loss, discrepancy, or conversion impact resulting from such actions taken in satisfaction of fee obligations.

6.4 Collection of Fees

The Bank reserves the right to collect applicable fees through any one or a combination of the following methods, as deemed operationally or technically feasible: (i) direct deduction from the Customer's available funds, whether in fiat currency or Digital Assets, held within accounts or wallets accessible to the Bank under the Service; (ii) issuance of invoices requiring the Customer to transfer the owed amounts to a designated account or wallet; and/or (iii) requiring pre-funding of accounts or wallets to cover anticipated fees.

6.5 Non-Payment, Late Fees, and Penalties

All fees and charges owed to the Bank must be paid promptly in accordance with the terms specified in the applicable fee schedule, the Agreement or as invoiced. Failure to remit timely payment may result in the suspension or termination of access to the Service, at the sole discretion of the Bank.

In the event of late payments, the Bank reserves the right to charge interest on overdue amounts at the maximum rate permitted by applicable law and/or as outlined in the Agreement. Additionally, the Bank may recover all reasonable costs incurred in pursuing collection efforts, including, but not limited to, legal fees, court costs, and third-party recovery agency fees. Customers acknowledge and agree that such measures are necessary to protect the financial integrity of the Service.

Failure to pay fees may additionally result in:

1. Suspension or termination of access to the Service.
2. Late payment penalties, including interest on overdue amounts at a rate determined by the Bank and permitted by applicable law.

3. Recovery of outstanding amounts through legal or collection measures, with associated costs borne by the Customer.
4. Other actions defined in the Agreement.

6.6 Promotions and Discounts

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, introduce promotional or discounted fee structures for certain Customer segments, account types, or activities. The Bank retains the right to modify or withdraw such promotions or discounts at any time without prior notice.

6.7 Determination of Exchange Rates

If fees and charges are payable in a currency or Digital Asset other than the Customer's existing balances, the Bank may perform necessary conversions using an exchange rate determined by the Bank. The Bank disclaims liability for fluctuations in exchange rates or additional fees imposed by third-party payment processors or platforms for currency conversions. The Customer agrees that any such fluctuations, fees, or resulting losses are solely borne by the Customer and shall not give rise to any claims against the Bank.

6.8 Invoicing

The Bank reserves the right to issue invoices for fees and charges at its sole discretion. The Customer acknowledges and agrees that the obligation to pay all applicable fees arises independently of the issuance of an invoice. The Customer is required to ensure timely payment of fees as outlined in the Agreement, regardless of whether an invoice has been issued. Failure to remit payment within the due date may result in penalties or suspension of Service access.

6.9 Third-Party Fees and Blockchain Costs

The Customer understands and accepts that certain fees associated with the use of the Service may be imposed by third parties, including blockchain network operators and providers. All fees exclude third-party charges, such as blockchain network fees or validator costs, which the Customer is responsible for covering. Customers must ensure they have sufficient blockchain-native currency to cover gas fees, as Pave Bank is not liable for failed transactions due to insufficient funds. Blockchain network fees, commonly referred to as gas fees, are required to validate and process transactions on decentralized networks. These fees are outside the Bank's control and may vary based on the specific blockchain network utilized by the Customer. As a result, transaction costs may vary significantly depending on network congestion, transaction volume, or other external factors. Customers are responsible for reviewing these details carefully before authorizing transactions. By proceeding with a transaction, the Customer expressly consents to the applicable fees and acknowledges that such fees are non-negotiable and subject to processing.

Furthermore, Customers who engage with third-party integrations or external service providers, such as currency conversion platforms or payment gateways, are responsible for any additional fees levied by those entities. The Bank disclaims all liability for the accuracy, reliability, or fairness of third-party fee structures and advises Customers to review such terms independently before proceeding.

6.10 Refunds and Fee Disputes

Except where explicitly stated otherwise, all fees and charges paid to the Bank are final and non-refundable. Refund requests for transactions executed in error will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis, and approval of such requests is at the sole discretion of the Bank. Customers seeking refunds must submit their requests in writing, accompanied by supporting documentation, within a specified timeframe as outlined by the Bank.

For disputes related to fees or charges, the Customer must notify the Bank in writing within ten (10) days of the disputed transaction, invoice, or charge. The Bank will investigate the matter in good faith and provide a resolution in compliance with its internal policies and applicable legal standards. Failure to raise disputes within the specified timeframe may result in the forfeiture of the Customer's right to contest such charges.

6.11 Asset Measurement Methodologies

For operational, service eligibility, compliance, or internal accounting purposes, the Bank may apply methodologies, schedules, or reference data to assess the volume, value, or utilization levels of Digital Assets or fiat currency associated with a Customer's use of the Service. Such determinations may be based on indicative or reference market prices, periodic snapshots, rolling average calculations, or other valuation methods selected by the Bank at its sole discretion. The Bank may update or modify such methodologies from time to time without prior notice, and is under no obligation to disclose the specific calculation parameters unless otherwise agreed in writing. The Customer acknowledges that such internal measurements may be used for various operational purposes, including but not limited to eligibility assessments, service tiering, internal reporting, and application of fees in accordance with these Terms.

7. Customer Responsibilities and Obligations

The Customer acknowledges and agrees to uphold the following responsibilities and obligations to facilitate the secure, compliant, and effective use of the Service, as well as to promote a cooperative relationship with the Bank.

7.1 Adherence to Policies and Service Terms

The Customer shall adhere to all policies, guidelines, and terms governing the use of the Service, as issued or amended by the Bank from time to time. This includes, but is not limited to, compliance with the terms specified in this Agreement, operational guidelines provided within the Service platform, and any supplementary rules communicated by the Bank.

The Customer agrees to use the Service only for lawful purposes and in a manner consistent with the applicable laws and regulations of the Georgian and the jurisdictions in which they operate.

7.2 Provision of Accurate and Updated Information

The Customer is responsible for providing accurate, complete, and up-to-date information during onboarding and throughout the term of the relationship with the Bank. Any changes to the Customer's legal structure, ownership, authorized representatives, or other relevant details must be promptly communicated to the Bank. Failure to maintain accurate records or provide timely updates may result in the suspension or termination of access to the Service, and the Bank reserves the right to take remedial action as permitted under applicable laws.

7.3 Responsible Use of the Service

The Customer agrees to use the Service responsibly, in an ethical and transparent manner and avoid any activities that may undermine the integrity, security, or reliability of the platform. This includes implementing adequate security measures to safeguard access credentials, and other sensitive information associated with the Customer's account. The Customer further agrees not to engage in activities that may cause harm to the Bank, its systems, or other users, including but not limited to attempts to bypass security protocols, interfere with system operations, or use the Service for fraudulent or illegal purposes.

7.4 Responsibility for Third-Party Actions

The Customer assumes full responsibility for all actions performed under their account or profile, including those carried out by authorized representatives or third parties. The Customer shall ensure that only duly authorized persons access and use the Service on their behalf. The Bank disclaims liability for unauthorized transactions or activities resulting from the Customer's failure to secure their account or implement appropriate access controls.

7.5 Security Measures

a) Customer Security Obligations

Customers must exercise due diligence in protecting their authentication credentials, digital ledger addresses, and transaction authorization mechanisms. This includes, but is not limited to, safeguarding passwords, access codes, multi-signature tools, and any other credentials used to access or authorize transactions via the Service. Customers shall be responsible for ensuring that their digital ledger addresses, access credentials, and multi-signature authentication mechanisms are not compromised, shared, misused, or disclosed to unauthorized parties.

If a Customer fails to comply with these security obligations or exposes their account credentials or digital ledger address to unauthorized parties—whether intentionally, negligently, or by omission—Pave Bank may take appropriate remedial measures, including but not limited to: Generating new addresses; Resetting access credentials; Temporarily suspending or restricting access to transaction services; Imposing additional authentication requirements. Any costs, damages, or losses associated with security breaches resulting from Customer negligence or misconduct shall be borne exclusively by the Customer.

Pave Bank reserves the right to update, enhance, or modify its transaction infrastructure and associated security protocols at any time. Customers will be informed of material changes through appropriate communication channels.

b) Unauthorized Transactions and Customer Liability

The Customer shall bear full liability for any unauthorized transactions occurring under the following circumstances: The unauthorized transaction occurred due to the Customer's failure to comply with the security requirements outlined in the Agreement or by the Bank policies; The Customer failed to promptly notify Pave Bank upon becoming aware of a compromised password, access code, or any other security breach affecting their account; The unauthorized transaction resulted from the Customer's intentional, negligent, or inadvertent actions or disclosure of their account credentials or access information to any third party. In such cases, Pave Bank shall not be responsible for any resulting losses. The Customer shall remain liable for all losses incurred prior to Pave Bank's receipt of formal notification of the security breach.

c) Notification

The Customer agrees to promptly notify the Bank of any errors, unauthorized transactions, or security incidents affecting their use of the Service. The Customer shall take reasonable steps to mitigate risks arising from such incidents, including suspending affected accounts, securing access credentials, and providing relevant information to the Bank for resolution. Failure to notify the Bank in a timely manner may result in a loss of certain protections afforded under this Agreement.

d) Recovery of Incorrectly Processed Transactions

In the event of an incorrectly processed or misdirected transaction, Pave Bank will undertake reasonable efforts to investigate and assist in recovering the funds. However, Pave Bank does not guarantee successful recovery and shall not be liable for any unrecovered funds, especially where such loss arises from factors beyond the Bank's control, including but not limited to: Refusal of the counterparty to return the funds; Blockchain-level irreversibility of the transaction; Inaccessibility of the receiving address; Delays in notification or insufficient information provided by the Customer.

7.6 Customer's Obligation to Review Statements & Transaction Records

The Customer is responsible for regularly reviewing their transaction history, account statements, and Digital Asset balances through the Pave Bank platform. Any discrepancies, errors, or unauthorized transactions must be reported to Pave Bank within thirty (30) calendar days of receiving or having available to see the account statement. If the Customer fails to submit a dispute or inquiry within this period, the information contained in the statement will be deemed accurate and accepted by the Customer. Customers acknowledge that failure to regularly check their account statements and balances does not relieve them of responsibility for any issues arising from undetected errors, unauthorized transactions, or discrepancies. In case of any concerns, the Customer must promptly contact Pave Bank's customer support for clarification.

8. Third-Party Services and Integrations

The Service integrates with or might rely upon third-party services, applications, and providers to enable core or supporting functionalities. The following applies to these services:

8.1 Role of Third-Party Wallet Providers

The Service may enable the connection and interaction with Wallets and softwares operated or managed by third-parties. These providers maintain independent control over their platforms, and their terms and conditions govern their use. The Bank does not own, operate, or manage these third-party software or wallets and does not provide any warranties regarding their availability, security, or performance. The Customer is responsible for ensuring that any third-party they use complies with the Service's technical and security requirements. The Bank disclaims liability for losses, interruptions, or damages arising from the use or malfunction of such third-party wallets, including but not limited to wallet breaches, or incompatibility with blockchain networks.

8.2 Use of Decentralized Applications (DApps)

The Service may provide access to decentralized applications ("DApps") hosted on blockchain networks. DApps are autonomous systems governed by smart contracts and decentralized protocols, which are outside the control of the Bank. The Customer acknowledges that DApps carry unique risks, such as vulnerabilities in smart contracts, operational failures, or malicious activities. The Bank does not endorse or guarantee the reliability, security, or functionality of any DApps accessible through the Service. Customers interact with DApps entirely at their own risk and are strongly advised to conduct their own due diligence before engaging with such applications. The Bank assumes no liability for losses, disruptions, or other adverse outcomes resulting from the use of DApps.

8.3 Risks Associated with Third-Party Content

The Service may display, link to, or otherwise incorporate content, tools, or data from third parties, including but not limited to Digital Asset price feeds, market data, transaction tracking, or analytics. While the Bank endeavors to ensure the quality and accuracy of such information, it cannot guarantee its reliability, completeness, or timeliness. The Customer acknowledges that reliance on third-party content is undertaken at their own risk and that errors, inaccuracies, or delays in such content may impact decision-making or transactions. The Bank expressly disclaims liability for any inaccuracies or omissions in third-party content, and the Customer agrees to independently verify any critical information before relying upon it.

8.4 Permissions and Customer's Liability for Third-Party Access

The Customer may authorize third parties to access their wallet or transaction data through integrations or connections facilitated by the Service. Such permissions are granted at the sole discretion of the Customer, and the Bank is not responsible for overseeing, managing, or monitoring these permissions. The Customer assumes full liability for any unauthorized access, data breaches, or misuse of Digital Assets resulting from third-party integrations or permissions. Customers are strongly encouraged to review the terms and privacy policies of any third-party entities before granting access and to use permissions management tools to mitigate potential risks. The Bank disclaims all responsibility for losses arising from third-party access authorized by the Customer.

8.5 Bank Disclaimer on Third-Party Dependencies

The Bank acknowledges that the functionality and availability of the Service depend, in part, on third-party systems and infrastructure, including blockchain networks, and external softwares. These dependencies are subject to risks beyond the Bank's control, such as technical failures, cyberattacks, or regulatory interventions. The Bank does not guarantee uninterrupted access to third-party services or networks and disclaims all liability for disruptions, errors, or downtime caused by third parties. The Customer agrees to resolve disputes or issues directly with the respective third-party providers and acknowledges that the Bank has no obligation to intervene, mediate, or compensate for losses incurred due to third-party dependencies.

8.6 Indemnification for Third-Party Issues

The Customer agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Bank, its affiliates, and their respective officers, directors, and employees from any claims, damages, or losses arising from the use of third-party services, applications, or integrations.

8.7 Service Providers, and Customer Data Processing

For the purpose of delivering, maintaining, and enhancing the Service, Pave Bank may engage affiliated companies, third-party service providers, and other partner entities ("Partner Entities and Service Providers"). These may include, without limitation, entities involved in: (i) wallet infrastructure development, cryptographic key management, transaction execution, and security architecture; (ii) identity verification, sanctions and compliance screening, and fraud detection; (iii) payment processing, liquidity facilitation, and asset conversion mechanisms; (iv) technical, operational, or regulatory support services for Pave Bank's digital channels; or (v) joint service delivery or product integrations offered in collaboration with Pave Bank. From the commencement of the Customer relationship and throughout the duration of the Service, Pave Bank is authorized to collect, validate, process, store, and disclose Customer information—including, but not limited to, personal data, unique identifiers, and transactional records—to its Partner Entities and Service Providers as necessary for operational delivery and legal compliance. This may include data sharing with: (i) infrastructure providers responsible for wallet provisioning, encryption management, and key custody protocols; (ii) vendors facilitating transaction execution, blockchain network connectivity, and protocol-level interactions; (iii) identity verification and compliance service providers for anti-money laundering (AML), counter-terrorism financing (CTF), and know-your-customer (KYC) obligations; and (iv) regulatory authorities, credit bureaus, or enforcement agencies as required by applicable law or regulatory mandate.

Customer Consent and Obligations: The Customer hereby grants explicit and unconditional consent to such data processing and disclosures as reasonably required for the provision of the Service and to ensure compliance with applicable laws and regulatory obligations.

9. Termination or Suspension

The Bank reserves the right to terminate, suspend, or restrict access to the Service. The Bank retains the right to discontinue support for any assets, currency, blockchain network, or associated functionality at its sole discretion. In such cases, Customers are responsible for transferring affected Digital Assets to alternative wallets or converting them to supported currencies within the timeframe specified by the Bank. The Bank disclaims liability for any losses resulting from the Customer's failure to act within the provided timeframe.

9.1 Suspension or Termination by the Bank

The Bank reserves the right to suspend or terminate the Customer's access to the Service, in whole or in part, at its sole discretion, including under the following circumstances:

1. Violation of Terms or Laws: If the Customer breaches these Terms, violates applicable laws or regulations, or engages in prohibited activities.
2. Compliance Requirements: If required to comply with legal or regulatory obligations, including requests from authorities or enforcement agencies.
3. Suspicious Activity: If the Bank identifies transactions or activities that raise concerns about fraud, money laundering, or other illicit activities.
4. Operational Necessity: If necessary to maintain the security, integrity, or performance of the Service, including during system upgrades, outages, or attacks.

The Bank will endeavor to provide notice of suspension or termination where feasible. However, immediate suspension or termination may occur without prior notice in cases of urgent regulatory, compliance or security concerns.

9.2 Consequences of Termination or Suspension

Upon termination or suspension of access to the Service, the following provisions apply:

1. Cessation of Access: The Customer's ability to use the Service and associated features will immediately cease. Any ongoing transactions may be canceled or interrupted, subject to blockchain-specific constraints.
2. Settlement of Obligations: The Customer remains liable for all fees, penalties, or other financial obligations incurred prior to the termination or suspension date.
3. Retention of Data: The Bank may retain Customer data in accordance with applicable laws, including for compliance, auditing, or legal defense purposes.

4. No Liability for Termination Actions: The Bank disclaims liability for any losses, interruptions, or inconveniences resulting from the termination or suspension of the Service, provided such actions are taken in accordance with these Terms.

9.3 Reinstatement of Access

The Bank may, at its sole discretion, reinstate access to the Service following the resolution of the underlying cause for suspension. The Customer must comply with all conditions or requirements imposed by the Bank as part of the reinstatement process, including providing additional documentation or satisfying outstanding obligations.

10. Compliance and Due Diligence

10.1 General Compliance Obligations

The Customer agrees to comply with all applicable laws, regulations, and standards, including those relating to anti-money laundering ("AML"), counter-terrorism financing ("CFT"), and sanctions compliance. The Bank may implement measures necessary to meet these obligations, including but not limited to monitoring activities, maintaining records, and reporting certain transactions to regulatory authorities.

The Customer expressly consents to all compliance measures undertaken by the Bank based on the Bank's policies, acknowledging that such measures may include monitoring, transaction reviews, and secure retention of records. The Customer also agrees that these measures are critical for the continued provision of the Service in a lawful and secure manner.

10.2 Customer Cooperation and Consent

The Customer explicitly agrees to cooperate fully with the Bank's compliance efforts. By using the Service, the Customer provides irrevocable consent to:

1. Monitoring and Oversight:
 - The review and analysis of transaction activity, wallet interactions, and any other relevant activities facilitated through the Service.
 - The use of external compliance tools, third-party service providers, and automated systems for risk assessment.
2. Information Requests:
 - Submission of accurate, complete, and timely information or documentation, including during onboarding or as part of ongoing due diligence.
 - Provision of supporting evidence for the legality of funds, Digital Assets, or specific transactions upon request.
3. Record Retention and Disclosure:

- The secure retention of all data relating to the Customer's use of the Service, including identity verification documents, transaction histories, and compliance records.
- The disclosure of such records to regulatory authorities, or other third parties as permitted or required by law.

10.3 Use of Lawfully Obtained Funds and Assets

The Customer represents and warrants that all funds and Digital Assets used in connection with the Service are lawfully obtained and free from encumbrances. The Customer agrees not to use the Service for activities that violate any laws, including but not limited to Money laundering or financing of terrorism; Fraud, tax evasion, or other illegal activities. If requested, the Customer shall provide satisfactory evidence of the lawful origin of funds or Digital Assets.

10.4 Sanctions Compliance

The Customer represents and warrants that neither they nor their representatives, beneficial owners, or affiliates are:

- (a) Located in or organized under the laws of jurisdictions subject to sanctions or embargoes;
- (b) Listed on sanctions lists maintained by relevant authorities, including OFAC, the United Nations, HM Treasury, or the European Union;
- (c) Using the Service to engage in prohibited or illegal transactions or facilitate activities involving sanctioned entities, individuals, or jurisdictions.

10.5 Recordkeeping Obligations

The Bank will maintain detailed records of Customer activities, transactions, and compliance documentation in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Such records may include but are not limited to: Onboarding information, including identification documents and beneficial ownership details; Transaction histories, including timestamps, amounts, and wallet addresses; Compliance-related documents or evidence collected during ongoing monitoring. The Customer consents to the retention of these records beyond the termination of the relationship, as required by law or the Bank's policies.

10.6 FATF Travel Rule Compliance

To comply with the Financial Action Task Force ("FATF") Travel Rule or similar regulatory requirements, the Bank may require Customers to provide specific information for transactions involving Digital Asset. This information may include, but is not limited to: The name of the recipient and, for transactions exceeding regulatory thresholds, additional details such as the recipient's address; Proof of wallet ownership, where applicable; Any other information required to meet regulatory standards. The Bank reserves the right to apply or waive these requirements at its discretion, based on legal requirements, risk assessments, transaction amounts, and jurisdictional considerations.

10.6 Bank's Rights and Limited Liability

The Bank retains the right, at its sole discretion and without prior notice to the Customer, to take any actions it deems necessary or appropriate to ensure compliance with applicable laws, the Bank's policies, to mitigate risks, or to protect its interests, subject to its operational and technical capabilities. Such actions may include restricting, freezing, suspending, or terminating the Customer's access to the Service if the Customer is suspected of violating these Terms, engaging in illegal activities, or failing to meet regulatory or compliance requirements. The Bank may also block, freeze, delay, reject, or otherwise prevent transactions or assets it identifies as suspicious, non-compliant, or inconsistent with its policies or applicable laws, to the extent such actions are technically or operationally feasible.

The Bank may unilaterally modify, suspend, or discontinue any part of the Service, including functionalities, features, or supported assets, where such changes are necessary to adapt to regulatory requirements, operational considerations, or risk mitigation efforts. The Bank reserves the right to conduct investigations, reviews, or audits into the Customer's activities and transactions and may request additional information, explanations, or documentation as part of its compliance processes. To fulfill its legal and regulatory obligations, the Bank may report certain activities or Customer information to regulatory authorities, enforcement agencies, or external compliance partners as required or permitted by law. It may also share such information with affiliated entities or service providers engaged to support compliance efforts. Where the Bank deems it necessary and technically feasible, it may restrict access to or freeze assets, funds, or accounts associated with the Service. Such measures may be taken in response to legal directives, court orders, regulatory demands, or the Bank's reasonable suspicion of unauthorized or illegal activities. The Bank may terminate its relationship with the Customer if continued engagement is determined to pose a risk to its compliance obligations, operational integrity, or reputation.

The Customer acknowledges that the Bank assumes no liability for any losses, damages, or costs resulting from actions taken to fulfill its compliance obligations, including but not limited to delays, disruptions, denial of access to the Service or transactions, or the suspension of certain functionalities. The Bank reserves the right to recover any costs, penalties, or damages incurred due to the Customer's non-compliance with these Terms or applicable legal requirements.

11. Service Availability and Operational Limitations

The availability of the Service is subject to operational constraints, including scheduled maintenance, unforeseen technical issues, and circumstances beyond the Bank's control. The Customer acknowledges and accepts that such limitations are inherent to the operation of the Service and agrees that the Bank shall not be liable for any interruptions, delays, or restrictions resulting therefrom.

11.1 No Guarantee of Uninterrupted Access

The Bank endeavors to provide reliable and continuous access to the Service. However, due to the nature of blockchain networks, third-party dependencies, and technological systems, uninterrupted access cannot be guaranteed. Customers acknowledge that:

1. Service Interruptions: Access to the Service may be disrupted due to unplanned outages, system failures, or network issues.
2. No Warranties: The Bank expressly disclaims any warranties, express or implied, regarding the continuous availability, reliability, or functionality of the Service.
3. Corrective Actions: In the event of a serious technical error that causes incorrect order execution, Pave Bank at its sole discretion may determine corrective measures, including but not limited to: Cancel Open Orders; Temporarily suspend order executions. Reverse transactions that were executed in error.

11.2 Scheduled Maintenance and Updates

To ensure the continued performance, security, and compliance of the Service, the Bank may periodically perform scheduled maintenance or updates.

3. Feature Updates: The Bank may introduce new features or deprecate existing functionalities as part of regular updates. Customers are responsible for reviewing announcements regarding such changes to ensure continued compatibility with their operations.

11.3 Force Majeure and External Dependencies

The Bank is not liable for delays, interruptions, or failures in the Service caused by events beyond its reasonable control ("Force Majeure Events"). During a Force Majeure Event, the Bank will take reasonable steps to mitigate disruptions and restore functionality but does not guarantee a specific resolution timeframe or compensation for resulting losses.

11.4 Bank's Right to Modify or Discontinue Service Features

1. Notice of Changes: Where feasible, the Bank will provide advance notice of significant changes or discontinuations through formal communication channels.

2. Customer's Responsibility: Customers are responsible for taking necessary actions, such as transferring Digital Assets or adjusting workflows, in response to such modifications.

Where practical, the Bank will provide advance notice to affected Customers, specifying the changes and any required actions. However, the Customer acknowledges that in cases of urgent security, compliance, or operational concerns, modifications may be implemented without prior notice. The Bank is not liable for any disruptions, delays, or losses resulting from modifications, provided such changes are communicated appropriately and align with these Terms.

11.5 Customer's Role in Ensuring Compatibility

The Customer is responsible for ensuring the compatibility of their systems, wallets, and workflows with the Service. This includes maintaining updated software versions, adhering to technical requirements, and monitoring announcements regarding changes to the Service. The Bank is not liable for losses arising from the Customer's failure to comply with these responsibilities.

12. Intellectual Property Rights

By accessing or using the Service, the Customer agrees to adhere to these provisions and acknowledges that all intellectual property rights remain the exclusive property of the Bank or its licensors.

12.1 Ownership of the Service Platform

The Service and all associated components, including but not limited to software, applications, algorithms, designs, trademarks, logos, and related documentation, are the exclusive property of the Bank or its licensors. All rights, titles, and interests in the intellectual property associated with the Service are reserved by the Bank, except as expressly granted to the Customer under these Terms. The Customer acknowledges that their use of the Service does not grant ownership of, or any proprietary rights to, the underlying intellectual property. Any rights not explicitly conferred herein are reserved by the Bank.

12.2 Limited License to Use the Service

Subject to the Customer's compliance with these Terms, the Bank grants the Customer a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, and revocable license to access and use the Service for its intended purposes. This license is strictly limited to the duration of the Customer's active use of the Service and may be terminated by the Bank in accordance with these Terms.

The Customer may not sublicense, rent, lease, sell, assign, distribute, or otherwise transfer the rights granted under this license. Any unauthorized use of the Service or its intellectual property constitutes a breach of these Terms and may result in termination of access and legal action.

12.3 Restrictions on Use and Reverse Engineering

The Customer agrees not to:

1. Copy, reproduce, distribute, or publicly display any part of the Service, except as explicitly permitted by these Terms.
2. Modify, adapt, translate, or create derivative works based on the Service or its intellectual property.
3. Reverse engineer, decompile, disassemble, or attempt to extract the source code of any software or technology associated with the Service.
4. Remove, alter, or obscure any copyright, trademark, or proprietary notices affixed to or contained within the Service.

These restrictions are essential to safeguarding the Bank's proprietary technology and intellectual property. Any breach of these restrictions may result in immediate termination of access and liability for damages.

12.4 Feedback and Proprietary Notices

The Customer may voluntarily provide suggestions, ideas, or feedback related to the improvement of the Service. By submitting such feedback, the Customer grants the Bank a worldwide, royalty-free, perpetual, and irrevocable license to use, modify, and implement the feedback for any purpose without attribution or compensation.

The Customer must not remove or interfere with any proprietary notices or legends displayed within the Service, including copyright or trademark indications. Any unauthorized modification of such notices constitutes a violation of these Terms.

12.5 Protection of Bank's Trademarks and Logos

The Bank's trademarks, logos, and branding elements ("Marks") are the exclusive property of the Bank and may not be used by the Customer without prior written consent. Unauthorized use of the Bank's Marks for advertising, promotional, or other purposes is strictly prohibited and may result in legal action.

12.6 Third-Party Intellectual Property

The Service may include content, software, or tools licensed from third parties. 4. Pave Bank Investment Brokerage Account Service Terms and Conditions

1. Introduction

1.1. Overview of the Service

These Terms and Conditions ("Terms") govern the opening of, use of and termination of the Investment Brokerage Account Service ("Service") provided by Pave Bank to eligible Customers. The Service enables eligible Customers to purchase and sell Securities through one or more Investment Account(s) opened with Pave Bank (the "Investment Accounts" and each an "Investment Account"), where Pave Bank undertakes to provide brokerage services at the Customer's instruction pertaining to the acquisition, settlement and alienation of Securities. The Bank is a commercial bank licensed under the laws of Georgia and duly empowered to carry out brokerage services envisaged hereunder.

When used in the foregoing Terms the word "investment" shall mean the transfer by the Customer, through the instructions given to Pave Bank, of funds into Investment Account(s) created with Pave Bank for the purpose of the Customer acquiring securities, including (but not limited) to, stocks, bonds, Treasury Bills, Money Market Funds and other transferrable financial instruments and rights that can be offered publicly either as equity or fixed income instrument or the combination thereof, as defined by the applicable securities laws, as well as derivatives and/or other financial instruments ("Securities").

Customers are required to carefully read and agree to these Terms before utilizing the Service.

1.2. Risk Disclosure

The Customer acknowledges and accepts that the investments that the Customer may make under these Terms and within the scope of the Service involve substantial risks, including the potential for loss of the entire amount of capital invested. Pave Bank does not guarantee any specific outcomes or returns on investments made under these Terms. The Customer declares that it has been informed and fully acknowledges and accepts these potential risks, that it uses the Investment Account(s) purely at its own risk. The Customer acknowledges and accepts that it is a sophisticated investor and that Pave Bank shall not be liable for any losses incurred by the Customer including lost profits and income, loss of reputation, loss or collapse of business and indirect loss.

1.3. Limitation of liability

Investments in Securities involve inherent risks. Pave Bank shall not be held liable for any losses sustained by the Customer as a result of dealing with the Securities, as the outcome of a Customer's investment is always subject to market fluctuations, geopolitical and economic risks, as well as the risks attached to the specific type of Security and other factors beyond the Pave Bank's control.

When making investments through Investment Account(s), Pave Bank is acting solely upon the instructions of the Customer and it is always the Customer who makes investment decisions and bears the risks and benefits associated with such investment decisions. Pave Bank shall not be held liable for the Customer's failure to achieve its investment objectives, howsoever arising, including as a result of delays in executing and receiving or transmitting orders, market disruption or other facts matters or circumstances that affect the Customer's ability to acquire or dispose of the Securities.

Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph and the other limitations of liability set out in clause 14 (Liability of the Parties) of the General Terms and Conditions, any liability of Pave Bank hereunder, whether arising in contract, tort or otherwise (including negligence) shall be limited to a cumulative sum of the Service Fee (as defined below) to which Pave Bank received under the Terms in the preceding 12 month period.

The Customer acknowledges and agrees that Pave Bank may facilitate access to investment products through third-party service providers, including brokers, custodians, and execution venues ("Third-Party Institutions"). The Customer further acknowledges that Securities and funds may be held with or pass through such Third-Party Institutions, and that Pave Bank does not itself act as custodian nor assume any fiduciary duty in respect of such assets. Pave Bank shall not be liable for any acts, omissions, insolvency, or failure of such Third-Party Institutions, including any loss of Customer funds or Securities, delay in settlement, operational disruption, or any inability to access, transfer, or dispose of Securities resulting from such failure. The Customer bears all risks associated with the use of these Third-Party Institutions, even if they were introduced, arranged, or contracted by Pave Bank in the course of providing its Services.

To the extent that Pave Bank may lawfully possess or acquire any claim or right in relation to the Customer's assets held with a Third-Party Institution, and solely to the extent such rights are legally transferable or exercisable by Pave Bank, it may, at its sole discretion, take administrative measures to support the Customer's enforcement or assertion of such rights. Any such facilitation shall be subject to the Customer's prior written request, undertaken at the Customer's sole cost and expense, and contingent upon Pave Bank's determination that such action does not conflict with its legal, regulatory, or contractual obligations. Furthermore, Pave Bank shall be entitled, but not obliged, to act on behalf of the Customer and take such actions directly, where permitted by law and the Customer hereby grants advance authorization for such actions without further consent. Pave Bank shall have no duty to monitor or act, and no liability for inaction. Nothing in this clause shall be construed as creating or implying any fiduciary duty, warranty, or liability on the part of Pave Bank with respect to any act, omission, loss, or failure attributable to any Third-Party Institution.

2. Creation and Maintenance of Investment Account(s)

- 2.1. The Customer shall initiate the request for creation of the Investment Account directly through the Digital Banking System or in writing (including by email) to Pave Bank. Subject to the Bank's continuing approval, the Customer may be allowed to hold multiple Investment Account(s).

Once the investment is confirmed, the investment details (instrument purchased, maturity date, interest rate, etc.) will appear in the Customer's portfolio within the Digital Banking System.

For the avoidance of doubt, any Securities acquired through such sweeps shall be held by Pave Bank in a segregated or custodial account maintained in its own name, but solely for the benefit of the Customer. The Customer shall always retain beneficial ownership of all such Securities. Additional information about the applicable sweep program, participating institutions, and related terms (including any fees) will be made available to Customers in a separate Schedule A: Investment Subscription Document, which may be updated from time to time.

5. Fees and Charges

- 5.1. Pave Bank shall be compensated for the services rendered under Clause 3 through a Service Fee, which includes any other costs and deductions outlined in this Agreement and is net of any applicable taxes and expenses. The Service Fee may be calculated on a per-transaction basis or determined as a fixed percentage (%) of the yield generated by the Customer via the Investment.
- 5.2. Pave Bank is authorized by the Customer to sell its Securities to deduct any fees and expenses related to the Service, the Service Fee, commissions, bank commissions, and taxes, directly from the Investment Account.

Schedule A (to the Pave Bank Investment Brokerage Account Service Terms and Conditions) - Investment Subscription Document

1 Overview

This Schedule sets out the terms and features of the Cash Sweep Product ("Sweep Program") available to Customers of Pave Bank who meet the eligibility criteria set by Pave Bank, through their Investment Accounts. Sweep Program automatically transfers eligible cash balances from a Customer's Investment Account into interest-bearing omnibus deposit accounts at a network of participating U.S. banks ("Program Banks") via Pave Bank's third-party brokerage provider ("Brokerage Partner"). Brokerage Partner is subject to change at Pave Bank's discretion. This program is designed to provide customers with daily liquidity and potential FDIC insurance coverage, subject to applicable limits. The terms set forth in this Schedule form an integral part of and shall be construed together with the Investment Brokerage Account Service Terms and Conditions.

2 Sweep Program Mechanics

- 2.3 Eligible Funds: Subject to the Bank's discretion, available cash balances held in the Customer's Investment Account as of the designated sweep time may be swept into the Sweep Program on Business Days. The Bank reserves the right, but shall not be obligated, to effect such sweeps, and no implication of obligation shall arise from any past or future exercise of this right.
- 2.4 Sweep Timing: Funds will be swept into the Sweep Program at or around 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time (ET), adjusted for daylight saving time (corresponding to 12:00 a.m. Georgia time, also adjusted as applicable), each Business Day, unless Pave Bank receives contrary instructions from the Customer through the Digital Banking System or otherwise agreed with Pave Bank prior to the cut-off time. Funds swept into the Program are generally expected to become available for use in the Investment Account by 9:30 a.m. ET (5:30 p.m. Georgia time) on the following Business Day; however, actual availability may vary depending on operational, settlement, or market conditions. The timing and settlement of sweeps may be adjusted to reflect the operational schedules of the Bank, relevant financial markets, and/or counterparties. If a scheduled sweep does not fall on a Business Day or applicable market day, it may be deferred accordingly without liability to the Bank.
- 2.5 Allocation Algorithm: Brokerage Partner allocates deposits using a non-discretionary algorithm that considers eligible Program Banks' capacity, account type, and Program Bank limitations.
- 2.6 Withdrawal: The Customer may request a withdrawal instruction from their Investment Account to their designated current account. Requests received by 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time (ET) (12:00 a.m. Georgia time) on a Business Day will typically be processed within 3 (three) Business Days. Requests received after this time will be treated as received on the next Business Day. Funds already swept into the Sweep Program may be subject to additional settlement time. Withdrawals to cover trading or payment obligations will be initiated automatically.
- 2.7 Customer Authorizations

- 2.7.1 The Customer hereby authorizes and directs Pave Bank to carry out the sweeping of the fund on the Customer's behalf in connection with the operation of the Sweep Program.
- 2.7.2 The Customer further authorizes and directs Pave Bank to automatically redeem the swept funds (fully or partially) that are needed to settle a transaction, repay any debit balance incurred under the Sweep Program, or satisfy any other obligation of the Customer to Pave Bank or otherwise with respect to the Investment Account.
- 2.7.3 Customer hereby authorizes Pave Bank and Brokerage Partner to act jointly and severally to establish, maintain, and manage Program accounts at the Program Banks on behalf of the Customer and to allocate or reallocate funds among such Program Banks. The Customer further authorizes necessary recordkeeping, communication with Program Banks, and all actions incidental to the operation and administration of the Program.

3 Structure and FDIC Insurance Coverage

- 3.1 Program Bank Network: The Sweep Program may place funds into interest-bearing deposit accounts at one or more banks, including U.S. banks (Program Banks), designated by Brokerage Partner. The list of Program Banks may change at any time without prior notice. A current list may be made available to the Customer upon request through the Digital Banking System or by other means, subject to applicable policies.
- 3.2 FDIC Insurance: Deposits held at US Program Banks may be eligible for pass-through FDIC insurance up to USD 250,000 per Program Bank, per depositor, subject to applicable law and regulatory requirements. Under the current structure (e.g. 10 Program Banks), up to USD 2,500,000 of swept funds per Customer may be covered by FDIC insurance. FDIC insurance limits apply in aggregate across all accounts held by the Customer at each Program Bank, including those outside of the Sweep Program. Customers are responsible for monitoring their aggregate exposure and eligibility for insurance coverage.

4 Ownership and Custody

- 4.1 Beneficial Ownership: The Customer shall at all times retain full beneficial ownership of all funds swept into the Program Banks.
- 4.2 Custody Structure: Funds swept into the Sweep Program are held in custodial accounts in the name of Brokerage Partner or its designated custodians, for the exclusive benefit of Pave Bank Customers.

5 Fees

- 5.1 Service Fee: Pave Bank charges a fee on funds swept into the Sweep Program. This fee is calculated daily and deducted from the accrued yield before interest is paid to the Customer or otherwise, as agreed between the Customer and Pave Bank in writing.
- 5.2 Yield Disclosure: Unless otherwise agreed between the Customer and Pave Bank in writing, the net yield applicable to swept funds (after fees) will be credited on Customer's Investment Account on a monthly basis and shall be disclosed through the Digital Banking System. Yield may change without prior notice to the Customer.

6 Risks and Disclaimers

- 6.1 Program Risks: Participation in the Program involves certain risks, including but not limited to the possibility of funds being held at Program Banks not covered by FDIC insurance, delays in accessing funds due to the Program Banks or regulatory actions, and changes in yield(s). The Customer understands and accepts these risks.
- 6.2 No Guarantee of Interest Rates/Yields: Pave Bank and Brokerage Partner do not guarantee that the interest rate earned through the Program will be higher than rates available through other investment vehicles or direct bank deposits. Interest rates may fluctuate based on market conditions and the terms offered by Program Banks.
- 6.3 No Bank Guarantee: Participation in the Sweep Program is not a deposit with, or other obligation of, Pave Bank and is not guaranteed by Pave Bank.
- 6.4 Changes and Termination: Pave Bank reserves the right to modify or discontinue the Sweep Program at any time without prior notice. Updated terms will be made available to Customers through the Digital Banking System or otherwise. Pave Bank retains full discretion to establish and/or change eligibility criteria or otherwise ban the Customer from participating in the Program, limit access to certain Program Banks or deposits, or otherwise limit the Customer's participation in the Program.
- 6.5 Sanctions and Freezes: Funds may be frozen or blocked or be subject to forfeiture at any time if required under applicable law, regulation, or government order. Pave Bank and its third-party providers shall not be liable for any loss or delay arising from such actions.

7 Limitations and Risk Disclosures

- 7.1 FDIC Coverage Limitations: Customers are responsible for monitoring their aggregate balances across all accounts and intermediaries, and for assessing their eligibility for FDIC insurance coverage in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.
- 7.2 Temporary Uninvested Funds: Due to Pave Bank's capacity or sweep timing or any other reason, some cash may temporarily remain uninvested.
- 7.3 Access Delays: In the event of a Program Bank failure, access to funds may be delayed pending FDIC resolution.
- 7.4 Discrepancy Reporting and Claim Limitations: Customers must review their statements promptly upon receipt and report any discrepancies, errors, or unauthorized activity to the Bank or Brokerage Partner within 10 calendar days. Failure to notify within this period may limit the Customer's ability to assert a claim regarding such discrepancies.
